Cindy Tschosik

Cindy Tschosik, is a certified ghostwriter, a certified book marketer, speaker, CEO of SoConnected, the author “The Perfect Book Checklist” and co-author and editor of the recently published collaborative work, Called to Lead; Success Strategies for Women.

For five years, Cindy has served authors as a ghostwriter, developmental editor, book doctor, book coach, and book strategist. She works with authors who are professional speakers, therapists, coaches, business owners and parents. These authors have written or are writing non-fiction business books, personal development books, mental health books, metaphysical books and prescriptive memoirs.

Before writing full-time, her business, SoConnected, opened in 2013 as a full-service marketing agency which developed websites, wrote and edited magazine articles, blogs, website content, and marketing collateral, project managed large marketing projects and planned, crafted and executed content marketing and digital advertising campaigns.

With an expansive career of over 25 years, Cindy’s background includes experience in legal, corporate, IT, zoning and site acquisition, entrepreneurship, construction, development, marketing, non-profit, project management and speaking/teaching/coaching.

Clients describe Cindy as creative, introspective and intuitive writer who is collaborative, consultative, hardworking, and she intentionally listens to understand her authors. Thanks to her intuitive and empathic nature, she is often hailed as “a mind reader who gets me.”

She keeps abreast of industry news and trends through several memberships, conferences, and continuing education programs for writers, coaches, and speakers. Cindy is a proud member of the Non-Fiction Authors Association, Association of Ghostwriters, Author’s Guild, National Speakers Association and NSA – Illinois.

Cindy lives in Chicago’s western suburbs with her husband of 27 years, three teenagers, and Roxie the Cockapoopoo. Cindy rejuvenates her creative energy with long hikes, traveling, writing on the beach, and wine-ing with friends.
