

Rathlin Castle offers a full-suite of grant related services but our focus is not on grant writing for customers. I prefer to teach you how to write your own grant and coach you through the process so you can learn how to write successful grants.

I only actually write grants for organizations that are interested in long-term relationships. If you have some interest in a long-term relationship, please email me at stew@luxsci.net to discuss. Typically, I will not take on new clients unless an organization needs assessment is conducted first. I get to know you and you get to know me. This is how long-term relationships get started.

Grant Coaching and Mentoring

This is an hourly service where I help you write a grant but you do the bulk of the writing. This is a good program for first-time grant writers. Or for grant writers that write a lot of grants but never get any winning awards. I'll help you figure out where you may be going wrong in a brutally honest kind of way.

Grant Research

Here you propose an innovative idea you have for a new project and I provide research services to see if there are some funders out there you can apply to for funding.

Grant Reviews before you submit

I am a professional grant reviewer and if you want a second opinion before you submit then I can review your grant with my "reviewer" hat on and give you a formal written grant review with positives and negatives plus my overall assessment on points.

Organizational Needs Assessments

This is an important first step for any organization to review your organization to see where you may be able to get grants to support your mission. It is also a very important first step to establish any kind of long-term relationship with me if you want me to write your grants for you.
