

IMPACT STUDY

Title

An investigation into the effectiveness of 'PRESET Tutor Training: Certified Tutor Status' for a tutors referral status and in developing academic resilience in students

Aim

To identify the characteristics that are associated with a tutor that would be worthy of referral, and to what extent 'PRESET tutor training' can develop these.

Objectives

We will summarise the characteristic parents look for most in a tutor

We will measure the percentage change in a tutor's confidence over several key metrics that are effective at developing independence in learning, including:

- A. Implementing strategies that promote active learning
- B. Using memory enhancement techniques in teaching and learning
- C. Building intervention methods to improve executive function and reduce barriers to learning
- D. Building confidence

We will assess the reliability of the tutor's qualities using student feedback

We will assess a students confidence in their ability to learn independently and the trust they place in their tutors
