The first-ever Social for Safety Conference will bring together communicators representing law enforcement, fire service, emergency management and more to share social media expertise and best practices.

WHY THIS EVENT MATTERS

Many public safety communicators struggle with where social media fits in before, during and after crises. Whether you're dealing with a weather emergency, wildfire, mass casualty incident, or simply focusing on daily community outreach, your peers can teach you what works - and what doesn't - when using the power of social media.

WHO S4SCON IS FOR

All public safety communicators including PIOs, public affairs specialists, emergency managers, officers, firefighters, dispatch supervisors, first responders, government leaders and any public sector professionals interested in learning more about social media in emergencies.

IT'S WORTH THE INVESTMENT

S4SCON will unite communicators from government and private industry across the country to collaborate on social media best practices and lessons learned in emergency planning and response efforts.

S4SCON is an unparalleled opportunity to learn social media strategy from public safety agencies across America.
