I started my career as an engineer and followed the footsteps of my father and grandfather. I am the first woman in my lineage to work and see being able to work as a privilege.

I went from being the youngest and only female in my division and within 7 years to holding leadership roles in corporate Australia.

Inspired by my trip to Nepal, I left the corporate world and started my own business mentoring leaders which I have been running for almost 20 years working with over 100 companies.

I specialise in mentoring leaders to engineer their careers, communication and confidence. I work with influential leaders to create workforces of the future.

My why is to educate 10 million women and girls around the globe by providing wisdom and clarity in action.

I have spoken to over 150,000 in 18 countries as a global keynote speaker.

I have mentored over 1000 people as an executive mentor.

I am an author of 8 books including a #1 Amazon best seller.
