ANGEL ANSWERS...

Show me the light

Q What happens when you have difficulty managing your soul purpose of being a lightworker, and yet you find yourself in the dark in your personal life? How does one strike a balance between the challenges of serving others with the highest perspective of love and light and not be able to implement it in their personal challenges?

Michael B, email

A This is very common, Michael! Sometimes light-workers get so preoccupied with focusing on being there for others that they forget to apply the same spiritual principles to their own lives and then wonder why they're so unhappy. The balance comes when you put yourself back into the equation. You must take care of yourself first before you can take care of anyone else, but this is so easily forgotten. You also have to begin every day in some kind of prayerful meditation connecting to the Divine. This takes care of your spirit and sets the tone for the day.

Honour yourself and your process, knowing that the 'darkness' symbolises a part of you that is longing to be expressed, but has been neglected. We get so caught up in the emotional feelings and negative thoughts that we don't really listen to what is being asked of us.

Become still. Ask God and the angels to use you to serve in a bigger way. Feel yourself lifting to a higher perspective to let love and peace in so that you're not dwelling in the seeming challenges. This is simply an opportunity for you to become in alignment with your higher self and begin to choose differently from this expanded awareness. Be patient and become a disciple of self-love and you will see and feel the 'light' in no time.

The key to achievement

Q How can I learn to be more disciplined on my path to achieve goals?

Karin, email

A The angels applaud your awareness. This shows a pure intention to become more of who you are – a perfect start because now it's just about changing your thinking. Sounds simple, but it takes a committed and compassionate effort.

In order to create any change, you must do something different to what you've been doing. You're focusing on what you don't have, but to enforce a shift, you must begin to look at the qualities about yourself that you do like. Ask the angels to help you love everything about yourself. When your ego criticises, say, "Thank you for sharing," and then tune into the angels who are always based in love. The ego operates from a limited perspective to bring you down. Every time you catch yourself in self-judgment, move into prayer and positivity.

Do something every day for you and your goals. Even a baby step is energy in the direction of what you're beginning to create. And the angels say a strong ego is just a sign that you have a big purpose!

Stuck in my career

Q For the past eight months I've felt stuck and unable to make any progress regardless of how much I try. Where is the block?
Sara, Facebook

A Life is all about the ebb and flow of cycles and seasons. Summer is a time when what we've been praying for begins to take form. You, like many others, have been going through a purging of the old (fear-based) self that no longer serves you. But since the new has not quite yet appeared, we tend to cling to the doubts and worries, because it's familiar and it's what we know.

When we are stuck, we are holding on to the old out of fear of letting go. And when our focus is on the struggle and the block, there is no room for healing because the mind and awareness is at the level of the problem. It is imperative to change your thoughts, words and actions. Know that you are so much more than your physical self, human limitations and problems. You are created out of the image and likeness of God, and all of God's qualities are within you. It is from that place that you must dwell.

You are already programmed for success and abundance, but you must tap into this energy through prayerful intentions, gratitude and meditation to anchor these higher vibrations and bring them forward on the Earth plane. Begin to give of yourself in all ways. You get what you give. What are you putting out there? Lean into your angels and see yourself as radiant, powerful and capable of Divine success. It's already happening...

Healing hands

Q Am I meant to do healing work for a living? I have been told I have healing hands but I'm unsure if I should keep pursuing this path?
Tara, email

A I see a rainbow colours in your aura. That tells me you are not only an energy healer, but that Archangel Raziel is with you, too. Raziel is raising your vibration so that you can step into your power, accept your healing abilities and trust this new path as you move forward on it. He can help you understand the esoteric messages and signs as they come through and help you tap into the deep wisdom that already lies within you. He and your angels say that you have incarnated in this lifetime to make a global impact. They show me the caduceus, which is the spiritual symbol of the staff that Hermes carried in Greek mythology. This is symbolic because you've done this work before in past lifetimes in Greece and even Egypt.

The healing that comes through your hands is quite transformational. As you begin to really embrace this, you will effortlessly and naturally attract many people looking for your services and be very successful.

Going green

Q I live in Guatemala and our office is going green. I would love to know the next steps I should take to change old habits people have in order to help to heal Mother Earth.
Maria, email

A The angels say how important it is to 'think green' in order to shift the consciousness and awaken so we can make new choices to heal our planet. The first thing I hear is recycle. Have plenty of bins designated for people to place their empties in easily rather than in the trash. Eliminate bottles of water, and have either a filter, or a company that delivers larger bottles. Provide mugs or glasses or bring them from home and keep some handy for visitors so that you reduce or eliminate your use of paper or plastic cups. Bring lunch to work in reusable containers and if you do order out, make sure you have reusable plates, utensils and napkins. Try to do as much work on the computer as you can so you don't have to print unnecessarily on paper. And purchase recycled paper for when you need it. In fact, be on the lookout for eco-friendly products all around.

Set computers to energy saving settings, install energy efficient bulbs and make sure everything is shut down at the end of the day. If possible carpool, use mass transit, walk, or bike to work. As more of us even share about what we are doing to contribute it inspires others to do the same.

And most importantly, when you are walking around outside, bless Mother Earth with each step. Energy follows where we place our attention and this is a way to honour her, and bring light and healing to her sacred ground.

RECYCLE!
