ANGEL ANSWERS...

Globe-trotting glee

Q I've been suffering from depression. My husband and I decided the best thing was for me to quit my job and he is taking a sabbatical from work. We are traveling the world for four months. But I'm worried about traveling with all the current energy changes and natural disasters. Do the angels have a message about my travels?
Clare, London

A This trip is divinely inspired and is truly a gift as well as a blessing. This is not only a holiday for you both, but a spiritual inward journey to release the pains of the past and embrace the new healing energy that is surrounding you. However, you must take steps to shift your attention away from the worry and depression to the present moment of beauty, love and peace. Excessive worrying is a major contributor to your depression. Your mind has been like a hamster on a wheel, running in circles but getting nowhere. It's time to change your thoughts in order to create something new and wonderful, and begin to move forward.

This is where the travel comes in. Movement, flow and adventure – it is answered prayer. The angels want you to enjoy each moment of this potentially transformational experience as you drop the unnecessary thoughts of your mind and open up, feel and live from your heart.

What's in store?

Q What's my purpose? I'd also love to know my guardian angel's name.
Anna Maria, via email

A Your guardian angel's name is Jaqueline. She is working with you to align you with your soul's mission. She says you've served a great purpose caring for and listening to others. But you focus on what you haven't accomplished and, as a result, you feel lost.

Jaqueline and your other angels want to help you feel more connected, confident and successful. I see you counseling and guiding people, one on one. I see healing as you release low thoughts about yourself and view yourself as the angels see you – creative, beautiful, and radiant! I also see a partnership in your future that will be successful in friendship and business. Connect with your angels every day in gratitude, trust, and faith and things will begin to shift rapidly.

Pregnancy blues

Q I have been struggling to conceive again for a while and would love to know if I might have more children?
Margaret, via email

A I do see more children in your aura, but these are very evolved souls that need everything to be perfect before taking form. Energetically you haven't been open to receive. You've lost sight of your connection with spirit, placing your attention in the 'wrong' place. Slow down, connect with the Divine feminine and Mother Mary, and relax and nurture yourself. Deepen the connection with your partner. Remember the love between you. Communicate from the heart and meditate together to raise your vibration so these high souls can incarnate through you. Finally, talk to the spirits of these unborn children. Thank them for choosing you to birth them.

Get the creative juices flowing

Q I would like to be more creative. Perhaps a business in the future but I feel like I have a 'block'. How can I go about getting through this and achieving my dream?
Mandy, via email

A I hear the angels calling you a 'leader and teacher.' But as I tune into your energy, I see that you tend to compare yourself to others, always thinking that someone else is more inventive, successful and inspirational than you.

The angels show me that the only 'block' is a mental one because all of those qualities are already within you. You are just seeking on the outside what can only be found on the inside. It is an old belief that stems from your childhood.

But this is a new moment and that belief can be changed. Archangel Michael can help you release this block and balance your energy so that you can manifest your dreams of having your own business. Call on him and visualise him surrounding you in white light. Breathe this light in to your body through your nose, and powerfully exhale through your mouth all old habits, patterns and fears. Visualise yourself confident, strong and fully able and ready to manifest what is in your heart.

Engage in creative activities, for example draw, paint, dance, sing, take an arts and crafts class – anything that gets your creative juices going – as a way to get into that flow of creativity and then you will begin to attract exactly what you desire because you will be vibrating at that same frequency.

A perfect job?

Q I'm thinking about a career change as I feel my current career is no longer what I want to be doing anymore and I would like to do something different. I'd love to have a job that I actually enjoy and doing something worthwhile – the problem is I'm not exactly sure which direction to take and wondered if you had any advice for me.
Nicola, via email

A You have so many angels and guides around you at this time particular time in your life, Nicola. They have heard your cries to feel more fulfilled and they have rushed forward to help you. They want you to reflect on the past when you experienced love at its fullest, and spend time feeling that vibration of unconditional love.

Each day, listen and talk to your angels in meditation as they prepare you for a new and magical phase in your life. I see you transitioning slowly from the job that you are in now to something more rewarding. Be on the lookout for a new class that will help in this transition.

The angels say that when you were a little girl there was something specific you wanted to be when you grew up. This is a clue to the area in life that they want you to focus on. Believe in yourself to create these changes, and as you connect to and communicate with the angels, utilise their loving assistance as you head in that exciting direction.

Time's a-ticking

Q I'm single, in my mid-30s and I feel that time is running out to have children. Is there something blocking me from meeting someone?
Stephanie, via email

A The angels come through so strong for you, Stephanie, to let you know you are not running out of time. While society pressurises us to conceive at a young age, more and more women are having healthy children later in life. If a soul is meant to come through, it will do so. I see two children in your auric field right at your side, and I see that when you meet that special someone, it is going to happen fast.

You are being asked to look at how committed you are to love. This begins with self-love. Do you love and accept yourself? Are you connecting with God and the angels every day in meditation to align with your Divine self? This is how you develop that strong foundation to prepare for your beautiful future. I see it for you, but can you hold that vision for yourself? It is imperative to shift your thinking, open up to the love of who you are and surrender. Affirm in gratitude that it's all already done in the mind of God, and then let go and watch it unfold in your life.
