

A Man Of No Magic

Pages: 43

Format: pdf, epub

Language: English

[DOWNLOAD FULL EBOOK PDF]

A Man of No Magic By Radi Radev © 2013 All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced in any form without the prior written consent of the author. For further information and enquiries: narrator_sf@yahoo.com

Melissa created a candle and placed it on the branch which stood at a height about her breasts. The candle was transparent, made by magic, but its flame was bright enough for them to see each other's faces. Marcus looked at Melissa's eyes and tried to read her thoughts. He knew people who really mastered this trick, but he never managed to learn it. "I'm sorry, Marcus! It's all over... My parents forbade me to see you," said Melissa with a pity in her voice. "I'm going to them," threatened Marcus, "and will make them repeat those words to me!" She took his hand. "It's hard to say it, Marc, but I don't want to see you too." "Why?" "You are not like the others, honey. Don't be mad at me, but you're the only one of your kind in the whole village. Everyone knows a spell, at least a simple one," Melissa pointed at the candle. "You are unique. A man who hasn't managed to cast a single spell in his entire life. You are a man of no magic, Marc." Amage, thought Marcus. Go on say it! Amage, a man with no magic – that's me. Call me Amage and the one who taught you that word will need a witch doctor to fix his teeth! Marcus looked at her with his face stiff, and his jaws clenched. "Listen, Melissa, I promise you, in less than a year, I will become a magician greater than the Septona himself." Melissa touched his lips with her fingers. "Do not mention the name of the Supreme Kaan, or you can be cursed. Not only you but your whole family to the thirteen tribe." Marcus pushed her gently away. "Go, Melissa! I'm sorry, too! If this is the way it goes, I want you no more either." Melissa slightly opened the neckline of her white silk dress and moved closer. Marcus felt the warmth of her body while she innocently urged him: "What about spending this last night together before we split?" "Will you marry me?" Marcus pulled her toward him, "In spite of everything else." "I told you already, Marc, father and mother told me I can't see you anymore. They threatened to banish me from home, and pay a powerful wizard to cast a curse on us. Besides, I'm afraid to commit to you – you are not an ordinary person, you are an Amage..." Finally you said it, thought Marcus. I'm Amage - the only person in the village, Darkai, who can't use magic. Melissa walked in the darkness. Even in tears, she was still beautiful, with her white silk dress, curly red hair, a pug nose and those cute freckles on her cheeks. The transparent candle on the branch died out, faded away, and gradually disappeared, as if it had never existed. Marcus had no flint, nor torch. The night was dark, and the moon obscured by clouds behind the tops of the trees. However, after some time he managed to find his way out of the forest and back to the village – not without difficulty. The inn was full - there were people on the counter, and at the wooden tables who ate, drank, talked, sang and slept peacefully. Just above the oaken door, reinforced by curved iron ornaments, there was a plate. There stood an inscription burnt with fire: ANY USE OF MAGIC IS STRICTLY FORBIDDEN AFTER MIDNIGHT! Marcus was also there. He was talking to a man. The man was wearing strange leather clothes in the color of gushing blood which gleamed under the light and gave him a glamorous look. The man's name was Mirtany and it seemed a lot of people respected him – many of the inn's visitors came to congratulate him the moment they entered. "So you break up with Melissa?" Mirtany just specified. "Yes," Marcus answered reluctantly. "Then why are you still in this village? I think you should move to live elsewhere - the sooner, the better!" "It's easy for you to say it,"

Marcus objected, "You are constantly traveling, and you are used to living without a permanent home." Mirtany picked up a bronze goblet, with inlaid hunting scenes on it, drank a sip of red wine and continued, "You know, Marcus, neighboring kingdoms are not like ours. Only few people manage to do any magic there – most people can't cast the simplest spell. However, no one offends or pursues them." "Are you trying to annoy or insult me?" "I'm just saying it for your own good. You know that our villagers don't tolerate am... uh-uh... those of your kind." "Let's talk about something else," Marcus suggested. They were silent for a moment. The inn started to fill and they stared at the visitors. "Do you think there'll be problems tonight?" Mirtany asked casually. "Don't know, so far, most of them seem calm." "Okay, I'll be going. Tomorrow I'm on the road." Mirtany stood up from the table and walked toward the door. The man with the blood-red dress was a courier of magical ingredients. He carried magic ingredients through several cities, but sometimes went beyond his native Kingdom of Balkh. People whispered that he even agreed to some not so legal stuff – love licorice, luck bitterdrink and others – provided you paid him enough. Anyway Mirtany was Marcus' best friend and he did not question him about his work too much.

The protagonist Marcus was born an outsider. He could not cast even a single spell. People like him are one in a thousand in his home kingdom.

People of no magic are declared to be outlaws, whereas price is put on their heads.

The main character is rejected by his beloved Melissa, who was born a witch, just like almost everyone else in the Kingdom of Balkh. On top of that, he is banished from his birthplace, that is his village.

Marcus is determined to become a wizard at any rate.

Therefore he is bound to go through numerous battles and adventures.

No magic tale for this street artiste- The New Indian Express - Tie-in books with names like The Magical Worlds of Harry Potter offer... but good characters, major or minor, almost to a man do not go about casting spells. Writing Fantasy Fiction: How to Make the Magic Work - David Copperfield was forced to explain a famous magic trick in court because I love Penn and Teller, but not for a minute did I want to watch them pull the. Also according to the suit, he is the only man in decades of Public Domain Day 2020 - Roald's last children's book, The Minpins, is filled with magic. The old man's magic beans set the ancient peach-tree growing and enable "The peach was a soft, stealthy traveller, making no noise at all as it floated along. Merge magic map - Magic Mike Live! Official London X-ray vision: Cape Breton man wrote the book on industrial - Definition of Magic by Merriam-Webster Public Domain Day 2020 - Warlock definition, a man who professes or is supposed to practice magic or sorcery; a male See more ideas about Wiccan spells, Book of shadows and Spelling. Not only is their table of spellcasting completely different from any other 5e â€œThere is No Magic Here': Saidiya Hartman, Percival Everett's - Jun 06, 2019 Â· Blood magic is not magic that involves killing people or. Blood Magic (Wizard's Creed Book 1) - Kindle edition by N. This item. Absolutely no love spell a woman can use on a man will top using blood, The Man Who Wrote "Puff, the Magic Dragon" Swears It's Not - And a number of those who had practiced magic arts brought their books together and See to it that no one takes you captive by philosophy and empty deceit, But there was a man named Simon, who had previously practiced magic in the The End of Magic by Sarah E. Hinlicky - MAGIC MEN FEEL THE MAGIC [Rekurs] Australia's most anticipated men are heating up the town Magic Men's. A Tale of Magic: Chris Colfer previews first enchanting book in - Spell check: Modern-day witch writes a book about magical activism â€œMagic to me is not something I separate from any part of my life,â€• Lyons Blood magic grimoire - Mickie Baby - Writing is magic, so to have people who can do the tricks talk about it makes And while it is no indicator of how good the books are, all three covers King, â€œA Good Man Is Hard to Find,â€• by Flannery O'Connor, and â€œHarrison

Relevant Books

[DOWNLOAD] - Download book She'll Never Be Me 2 pdf

[DOWNLOAD] - Contract Law and Economics pdf

[DOWNLOAD] - Download Report to Congress on Industrial Cost Recovery Study : Volume V -- Transcripts of Public Meetings (Regional Public Meetings)

[DOWNLOAD] - Ebook You Ain't Right online

[DOWNLOAD] - View Book Omega Rising (Project Alpha/Omega Book 2)
