About the Author

Hi, my name is Bob Martin. Some people call me the “Expat Answerman” because I am an Expat and I like to help others who are interested in becoming an expat. I also have a website called Expat Answerman. I'm an American, but I have been living permanently in the Philippines since May of 2000. I moved to the Philippines at the relatively young age of 38. Additionally, earlier in my life I lived for 2 years in South Africa.

I own and operate a number of websites, almost all of them are related to life in the Philippines, or something about the Philippines. I have websites about living in the Philippines, Philippine dual citizenship, how to get Philippine citizenship, travel in the Philippines, hotels in the Philippines, food in the Philippines, making a living in the Philippines, just about anything you can imagine that's related to the Philippines. Why am I qualified to answer?

Because of all my experience working on Philippine issues, I have gained a lot of knowledge in this area. It is because of that, that I have decided to come out with a series of e-books regarding these issues. I am entitling this series of e-books as the Expat Answerman series. I suspect that in the entire series there will be many different e-books, each of them answering important questions that people have regarding life in the Philippines. If you have questions about living in the Philippines, I hope you will read all of the books that apply to you.

How do I know which questions are important? Well, you see, because of all these websites I literally get hundreds of emails every day. A large majority of these emails contain questions that people are asking on this subject. I know which questions are important by looking at which questions are most often asked. Over the years, I have saved all of these questions, and I literally have a collection of many thousands of such e-mail questions. By looking through these questions, I have found that there are around 50 different questions that are asked over and over again.

It is my belief that if many people have already asked me these 50 basic questions, there are thousands of other people who have the same questions on their mind, but just haven't asked yet.
How to reach me

If you have other questions for which I don't have a book, please feel free to send me an email and ask! You can reach me via email at rmartin@mindanao.com. I've been using the same e-mail address for over 20 years now, so you can be sure that you'll reach me there at any time in the future too.

So, that tells you a little bit about who I am, and why I'm qualified to answer your questions about the Philippines. So, with that information in hand, let's get on with the question that this ebook will address. So you are becoming an Expat

An expat, or expatriate is a person who is temporarily or permanently residing in a country and culture other than that of the person's upbringing.

The origin of the word is from two Latin terms:

ex – meaning “out of”

patria – meaning “country” or “fatherland”

So, the combination of the two words would mean out of country, or out of the fatherland. Makes sense, right? Negative Connotation *

If you are making a move to the Philippines, it is no quick and easy task! When you have made the decision to become an expat in the Philippines, that is when the work starts, and there is a lot to do! Bob Martin, The Expat Answerman, the author of this book knows all about the work involved, having moved on two International moves - once from the USA to South Africa and once from the USA to the Philippines. With Bob's experience and expertise, he can help you make the relocation an easier thing to accomplish and help you avoid the pitfalls!

This book covers these topics:

Becoming an Expat

Balibayan Boxes for shipping your belongings (this will save you major money on the move)

How to get airline tickets that will save you a ton of money when you come to the Philippines

If you can accomplish these things in preparation for your move, you will arrive in the Philippines way ahead of others who are making the move. With Bob's help, you can certainly finish ahead of the game!
