"I want you to know that my soul was waiting for you and when she found you she breathed a sigh of relief... You do exist, after all" In this companion poetry book to her sizzling memoir, Meet Me in Paris, Juliette Sobanet gives readers a heartbreaking look into the raw emotions of a romance novelist as she loses her own happily ever after. From the impossible pull of forbidden love to the devastating loss of her marriage, and finally, to rebuilding life anew, Sobanet's courageous poems expose the truth behind infidelity and divorce and take readers on a passionate journey of love, loss, and ultimately, hope. Whether they're fictional or true, these stories we all tell shed light on our universal experience as humans to love, to lose, to create new life, and if we're brave enough, to love again. It's a never ending cycle, one that we can all relate to, and one that we all need help surviving. Writing the poems in this book helped me to survive and make sense of some of the darkest days of my life, to love even deeper, and to embrace the new life I've created and all of the happiness and heartache that entails. Writing these poems has led me to the place where I am now—a place of joy, freedom, and a total gratitude for life. Much of that gratitude goes to you, my readers, for taking this journey with me first in my memoir, Meet Me in Paris, and now through this collection of poetry. While my choices may not reflect your own, I'm sure you have loved. I'm sure you have lost. And I'm sure you have needed help to weather the storms that have whipped through the story of your own wild, beautiful life. So, human to human, soul to soul, we aren't that different at all. We all tell a story that ultimately, every time, goes back to love. It is with this love that I share my words, my truth, and my own wild, beautiful story with you. I was hungry

When I first saw you
Broken, fragile
Thirsty, in need
My eyes
They fled to you
Bled through the air
Seeped into your pores
Took possession
In an instant
I belonged
Only to you
Even from across the room
I was chained to you
My heart, yours for the taking
My soul fell hard, fast
Into your smooth hands
Trapped within your savage desire
A wildfire burning in every cell
You didn't even know
You had yet to touch me
But I was already
Irreversibly, forever
Yours
Did my soul already know?
Had she already planned that magical night?
The night your eyes would take me hostage
The night chemistry would flow between us, effortlessly
An electric current of heat
My soul, she must have known
How important you would become to me
How happy I would be
Knowing you exist
She knew...that smart, vibrant, sexy soul
She totally knew
You are a gift
A beautiful, perfectly timed gift
One I will never take for granted
One I will love, always, for this
For where you have taken me
The world has opened
Now that you have arrived
I loved you even before
Those wings
Whisked your hungry heart
Through the heavens
Across an ocean
Into my arms
You knew this, of course
When a photograph
Of my lustful skin
Stained your inbox
Intoxicated, you became
Not from the sting of the alcohol
But from the way the light
Kissed my fallen hair
That morning
My heart may have burst
Had you not
Stepped off the plane
But you saved
My wounded mesh
Of flesh and ribs
And blood and tears
From a sudden
And tragic
Death
Your smile so luminous
The heavens had to squint
But my eyes grew to the size
Of a blue moon shining
Over the magnificent city
We would soon paint
With our love
Our sex
Our fire
Our tears
I loved you even before
Those wings
Whisked you away
From a wife
Who didn't know
That across an ocean
Her love would be tested
In the arms of a mistress
Who was falling
Who was stealing
The hungry heart
Of her husband
I want you to know
That of all the souls
Who have crossed paths with mine
I am happiest to have found yours
I want you to know
That wherever you go
Wherever I go
I will always think of you
I want you to know
That you have brought to my life
A bliss, a fever, a dance, a desire
I've never known before
I want you to know
That for me, you are
More than a body
More than a lover
More than your handsome smile
Or your sexy boy band hair
For me
You are a connection, an arrow
Straight to my heart
Into my soul
I want you to know
That my soul was waiting for you
And when she found you
She breathed a sigh of relief...
You do exist, after all
On your birthday, lover
I want you to know
That I am forever grateful
Forever filled
With desire, passion, and joy
Just to know you
And whatever happens
Whether our paths stay
On this same intense journey together...
Or veer far away from one another
I will always feel
Your heat, your warmth
Your sweet, adoring smile
Right next to me
I want you to know, too
That I would follow you to the ends of the earth...
Or to a motel in the middle of Kansas
I don't care, really
It's you I want
Plain and simple
It's you
Happy Birthday, lover
I am in the in-between
In love
Total, relentless, all-consuming love
But protecting myself
From the way
You shatter my heart
Every sunrise
Every sunset
And every moment in between
Is it an illusion?
To think we could have a happy ending
To think that one day
You will choose me
Am I crazy?
Straddling this line
Some days I am sure
Absolutely certain
You will come to me
Only me
And other days
I am tormented, tortured, heartbroken
Because you are far
So far away
That is my reality
You are not here
I am alone
And in love
