A friendly family

“Dogs are wise. They crawl away into a quiet corner and lick their wounds and do not rejoin the world until they are whole once more.”

—Agatha Christie

Having a puppy in your home can bring a great joy to your life! In fact, happiness is a warm and furry puppy! Before you bring home your happiness, you must check whether the puppy's characteristics will suit your personality! If you are going to be busy all day long, you cannot get a beagle home because that would break their heart and the neighbors would complain after your pooch starts howling!

If you are thinking about investing in a dog or adopting one, then you may have a breed in your mind. However, you need to ask yourself this question – Is the particular breed RIGHT for you?

Bringing home a dog whose characteristics and traits match with yours is extremely important.

Here is a post for you to understand dog personalities and whether a particular breed is right for you or not!

What should you keep in mind before you get a puppy home?

How big or small is your family?

Do you live in a joint family which consists of multiple people? Are you single? Do you live in a nuclear family? We are asking you this question because this does count as a valid question. If you have kids in your family, there are certain breeds which are adorable around kids. There are some breeds, which may not gel really well with the kids. If your home is filled with small kids, you may want to avoid toy breeds such as Lhasa apso and shit zu. The toy breeds get nervous around small children!

Space

Do you have enough space in your home? Some breeds need a backyard for exercise and play time. Some breeds can make merry in your little apartment. Make sure that you have a park for the dog to go for a walk because they need to get fresh! They need some play time outside and walking is an excellent exercise for them. If your neighborhood does not have a park and you live in an apartment, it is best to get a small dog which does not need much exercise. Larger breeds require a lot of exercises and play time! They need to go for a walk at least thrice in a day.

How is your lifestyle?

Are you a work-from-home type of individual? Do you want the puppy for your kids? Are you a single person who has a lot of work pressure? Well, you need to keep these things in mind before getting home a little pooch.

If you like to work out then you must get a dog that can cope up with your active lifestyle. Get an energetic dog which can run and play with you! Your morning run will become much more fun in case your dog likes to run with you.

If you are a busy bee and travel a lot, then get a breed which would not feel miserable after you leave them alone for a few hours! Most beagles start howling after being left alone. Dogs are NOT cats. Cats can make merry with milk and a ball of woolen but puppies need the attention. Choose a breed which would understand that sometimes they have to be alone!

Why do you want a puppy?

Most pet owners bring a puppy home for their entertainment. After few days, they realize that it is not as pleasant as they thought! Investing in a puppy and then taking care of him/her is a major responsibility. You have to treat the puppy like your child, who needs to be fed. They cannot communicate with you through words and so, you have to take extra care of their needs.

Why are you getting a puppy? Do want a watch-dog or just a companion? Dogs are great companions! On a sad day, they would sense that their parent is not in the best of moods and they would sit with you and start licking your hand and face. They bring out the best in you!

Do you want a puppy to motivate you to run and go for walks? Most owners get a puppy just to go out for a run! This keeps them active and happy. You must choose a breed that will solve your purpose. You could get a nanny dog which protects your child while they are playing. Different breeds have different personalities and so, you must choose a breed which could solve the purpose.

Budget and Time

How much money are you willing to spend? Do note that getting a puppy home is like adopting a young child. The only difference is that the puppy will stay young forever. After you get the puppy home, you would need to take care of the expenses such as toys, vaccinations, food, bed.

Some breeds are expensive and you may want to consider your budget before choosing the puppy. Check the cost of the puppy before you make the purchase. You may want to save up or opt for a dog which fits your budget.

Also, there are few breeds which need regular brushing and grooming. Breeds like Lhasa Apso, Shih Tzu, and Maltese require regular brushing because they have long fur. If you do not spend time and money on grooming these breeds, their fur would get tangled and your puppy will not look as pleasing! If you can afford to take your puppy for grooming sessions, then you must get a furry toy dog!

Some breeds are prone to medical problems! You have to be ready that they could have certain problems and you would need to pay the veterinary doctor bills! You need to decide whether you can spend a certain amount on your little pooch! If you are getting the dog for entertainment and you plan to give it for adoption later, it would be heart-breaking for the little pooch. Dogs get attached to their owners! Leaving them alone or disowning them later would put them through trauma! They do not take it positively after they are left at a shelter or another home.
