To Gabriella and Aurora Acknowledgements This monographic study is the main editorial product of a "Lise Meitner" biennial research project (2013–2015), generously financed by the Austrian Science Fund (FWF), and carried out at the University of Vienna. Among the institutions that have given scientific and institutional support to my research project I would like to thank the Historical Archive of Universal Edition, Vienna, represented by Katja Kaiser; the Musiksammlung of the Österreichische Nationalbibliothek and its director Thomas Leibnitz; the Deutsche Kinemathek in Berlin, in particular the library director Ines Kolbe and the manager of the periodicals section Cordula Döhrer; the Archive of the Akademie der Künste and the Staatsbibliothek in Berlin, as well as the Österreichische Forschungsgemeinschaft, the Arnold Schönberg Center in Vienna and the Richard Strauss Institut in Garmisch-Partenkirchen;
the Library of the Musicology Institute of Vienna University, represented by its director Benedikt Lodes; the Library of the Arts Department of Bologna University and its director Marinella Menetti;

the Cineteca di Bologna, in particular the contact for the periodicals and audiovisual section, Marco Persico.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Professor Michele Calella, who encouraged and supported the project since its very inception. But this is not the only reason why I am indebted to Michele Calella: I am also grateful to him for the interest he showed throughout the progress of my research, always offering me his passionate, expert guidance.

I also owe a major debt of gratitude to my colleagues Gillian Anderson, Julie Brown, Christy Thomas, Tobias Plebuch, Claus Tieber, Anna Katharina Windisch, Hartmut Krones, Nikolaus Urbanek, Eike Feß, Adele Lyon, Annika Forkert, Maria Fuchs, Roberto Calabretto, Leonardo Quaresima, Federico Celestini, Sergio Miceli, Carlo Piccardi, Maurizio Giani, Graziella Seminara, Anna Ficarella, Mauro Bertola and Ornella Calvano, for the hints and suggestions that they have kindly given me during the inspiring conversations I had with them.

Among the friends and colleagues of the Vienna Institute of Musicology I would like to thank Birgit Lodes, Christoph Reuter, Stefan Gasch, Ingrid Schraffl, Sonja Tröster, Scott L. Edwards, John D. Wilson, Martina Grempler, Sabine Ladislav, Barbara Babic, Carolin Krahn and Melanie Strumbl, for their precious support, and for the patience and dedication with which they have embraced my project.

A special thank-you goes to Julia Bungardt, Henriette Engelke, Zafreen Qureshi, Krzysztof Walewski and Machteld Venken, Daniel and Katja Haberkorn.

This book has been translated from Italian by Elisabetta Zoni and Alex Glyde-Bates. I would like to thank them for their support.

This book investigates the relationship between musical Modernism and German cinema. It paves the way for an unorthodox path of research, one which has been little explored up until now. The main figures of musical Modernism, from Alban Berg to Paul Hindemith, and from Richard Strauss to Kurt Weill, actually had a significant relationship with cinema. True, it was a complex and contradictory relationship in which cinema often emerged more as an aesthetic point of reference than an objective reality; nonetheless, the reception of the language and aesthetic of cinema had significant influence on the domain of music. Between 1913 and 1933, Modernist composers; exploration of cinema reached such a degree of pervasiveness and consistency as to become a true aesthetic paradigm, a paradigm that sat at the very heart of the Modernist project. In this insightful volume, Finocchiaro shows that the creative confrontation with the avant-garde medium par excellence can be regarded as a vector of musical Modernism: a new aesthetic paradigm for the very process of deliberate misinterpretation, creative revisionism, and sometimes even intentional subversion of the Classic-Romantic tradition; which realized the dream of Otherness; of the Modernist generation.
