

Maggiano's Little Italy, Orlando, Private Seating and Bar

8TH Annual LBG Dinner at the PGA Show

An Evening With Peter Kessler

Looking to kickstart this year's PGA Show? Join us Wednesday evening, January 24, for a private dinner with fifty-five like-minded professionals and featured speaker, Peter Kessler, renowned golf historian and television personality. Peter will entertain us as only he can with ninety minutes of golf history and personal stories of the greatest in the game. Also, he'll share experiences from his 1,300 live one-hour shows on The Golf Channel.

We'll meet in our private room, beginning with drinks and hellos at 6 p.m., then sit for dinner and lively conversation at 6:30. The cash bar (beer, wine, and cocktails) will be open all evening. Peter will begin his presentation at 7:30 and continue till 9:00, with plenty of time for Q&A. Your fellow attendees will include an international cross-section of some of golf's top teachers, including many who have been honored as PGA Section Teachers of the Year. Expect to learn from these folks, too.

Our venue, Maggiano's Little Italy, couldn't be more convenient. It's less than a mile from the convention center, and you can walk it in under ten minutes. If you drive, you'll find free covered parking or paid valet. We've only got room for fifty-five, and like last year, we'll sell out quickly. So register now (link below) to reserve your spot!

An Evening With Peter Kessler

"Peter Kessler remains one of golf's most cherished storytellers and historians of the game."

—Sports Illustrated

Peter Kessler is among the most sought-after speakers in golf. As "The Voice" of HBO Sports from 1990 through 1995, he narrated the Ace, Emmy, and Peabody Award-winning documentaries When It Was a Game, When It Was a Game II, the boxing trilogy In This Corner, and The Sweet Science. The premier talent at The Golf Channel from 1995 through 2002, Peter hosted, wrote, and produced 1,300 live one-hour episodes of four different shows: Golf Talk Live, Academy Live, Viewer's Forum and Masters Highlights.

A dynamic figure in the golf industry, Peter has been featured in golf publications around the world, including cover stories in Golf World and Golfweek. Steeped in the history of the game and on a first-name basis with today's greatest players, he was the subject of a ten-page profile and interview in Golf Digest. Peter has also produced programs for Callaway Golf, Adams Golf, Gary Player Golf, and Bobby Jones Golf.

The first "Voice" on The PGA TOUR Network, Peter wrote and hosted a daily show from 2005 through 2015. His free, top-ranked podcast on iTunes, Reading the Break, celebrates golf's vast heritage, offering insights and untold stories about the most compelling people and subjects in the game. In demand for his narration, Peter has provided voice-over talent for such organizations as American Express, the NBA, USTA, and Boys and Girls Clubs of America.
