

KSAT 12 News Headquarters

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

KSAT-TV's new two-story expansion added 16,000 square feet of open office space and rebranded the station with a much-needed face-lift. The project enhances the neighborhood, improves the pedestrian experience and fulfills KSAT's desire to have an engaging space that will support the station for the next 50 years. KSAT-TV worked out of the same studio building since its very first broadcast in 1957. Not only had they outgrown their original building, but news teams needed a more flexible space to accommodate better collaboration as well as future growth. Moreover, the station made it a top priority to create a strong new identity that would declare their long-term commitment to the San Antonio community.

The irregular-shaped site is located on the edge of downtown and offers views to the nearby San Antonio River. The design combines the unique existing site features — including a 500-foot signal tower, heritage oak trees, a news studio and technology control center — with a new cutting-edge newsroom and support spaces designed around modern open-office concepts.
