End of the line! Mobile gaming apps are a strange culture right now. Some call them games, and many others call them mobile games. Some even call them game apps. We don't judge. We already have a list of the best Android games and the best free Android games. You can find links to those just below this item. So what are we going to do with this list? It's pretty simple, actually. We wanted to highlight some great games that just wouldn't work on any platform. All these games have a great advantage only phones. No other gaming platform has a touchscreen and accelerometer, as well as Bluetooth, GPS and the ability to play in two different orientations. Some developers just use these things better than others. Here are the best gaming apps for Android! Halfbrick Studios gamesPrice: Free play-Halfbrick Studios is a developer on Google Play. They have some of the most popular and fun mobile game apps out there. Their collection includes classics like Fruit Ninja and Jetpack Joyride along with others like Dan Man and Raskulls (in beta at this point). These games are one of the most popular in their genre. Fruit Ninja is a classic arcade game, and Jetpack Joyride is a classic endless runner. Dan The Man is a decent mobile runner/fighter as well. All these games have a simple, fast mechanics and serve as excellent killers of time. Their newest game, Booster Raiders, is still under development, but it looks like it's going to fit right into Halfbrick's lineup. Monument Valley 1 and 2Price: $3.99 and $4.99 respectively, with an additional $1.99 DLCMonument Valley being one of the franchise's most iconic mobile games app. The first turned heads with its M.C. Escher-style puzzle, simple mechanics, and fun graphics. The second continues this tradition. Both games have the same basic games. You twist and move the levels around to open new paths. Both games are a bit short, but that's their only problem, really. Both are also single paying games without in-app purchases or advertisements. The First Monument Valley has some DLC, however. The lead designer of these games also made Florence, an interesting piece of life game. Mekorama is another great mobile game in this genre. It's also available to Google Play Pass subscribers for free. Nintendo GamesPrice: Free play /VariesNintendo hit the ground running in the mobile space in a big way. They have some notable mobile games. They include Fire Emblem Heroes, Animal Crossing: Pocket Camp, and Super Mario Run. The crossing of animals and the fiery coat of arms are freemium names. Super Mario Run is a premium title with a $9.99 price tag. It's a lot better than its lacklustre rating would you believe, and it's certainly among the best mobile Available. Fire Emblem Heroes and Animals Crossing: Pocket Camp are some of the best in their genres as Dragalia Lost was launched in September 2018 as well and it is very good. We are legitimately happy to see what Nintendo does next on a mobile phone. Noodlecake StudiosPrice: Free /VariesNoodlecake Studios is a developer of mobile games in Google Play. They have a lot of games. This includes fun puzzles like Lumino City and FRAMED 1 and 2 along with shooters like Delta Island, arcade sports games like their Super Stickman Golf series and their pumped-up: BMX series, and many others. This is not a game you can experience on any other platform other than mobile devices if you cheat the game a lot.
