

FluentCloud WebPhone

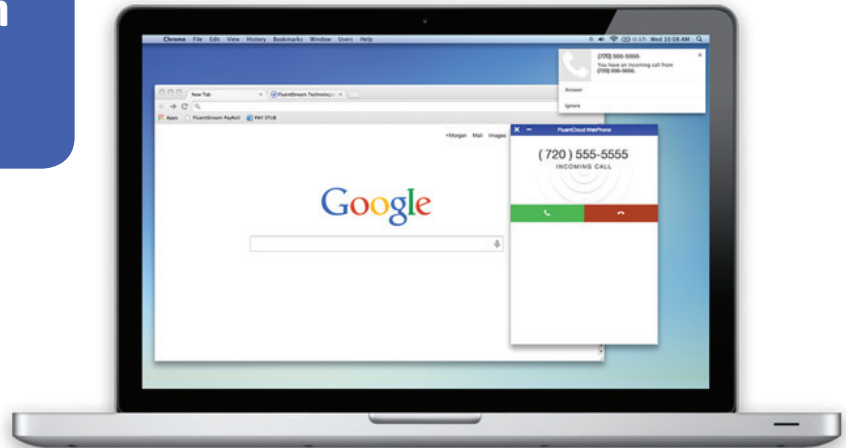

You don't need to be tied down to your desk to be an effective, professional communicator.

FluentStream Technologies, a leader in cloud-based business phone solutions, is now introducing FluentCloud WebPhone, a complete Google Chrome browser-based phone that utilizes Web Real Time Communication (WebRTC).

FluentCloud WebPhone is a revolution in business phone communications. Replace your desktop telephone with a more efficient tool for communication. The Chrome Extension enables inbound and outbound calling, along with all the amazing features already offered with FluentStream Technologies' cloud hosted phone solution.

FluentCloud WebPhone's audio quality is "best-in-class" when it comes to a software download, so you can be certain your communication comes across clear and professional at all times.

With just a single click, your phone system is installed live within your Google Chrome browser and there is no need to worry about additional plugins or required software. This can be used right along with your FluentStream-enabled desk phone.

Using FluentCloud Webphone allows you to utilize a visual voicemail inbox that is easy to manage and customize to your business communication needs. You will have quick visual access on your computer screen to view:

SMS
Call History
Fax
Voicemails

Adding the FluentCloud WebPhone to the professional features already provided by FluentStream Technologies ensures your needs for successful business communication can be met. Contact a member of the FluentStream Technologies sales team and get started on the FluentCloud WebPhone.
