

SPRING 2018

IELTS & TOEFL

#8432 AP127-300: IELTS

This class will prepare test candidates for all four sections of the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) examine including the receptive modules of Listening and Reading and the productive modules of Writing and Speaking. Focus will be placed on the skills, techniques and test-taking strategies necessary for test takers to sit for the language proficiency test. The various formats and structure of the test will be examined, and attention will be given understanding the rubric and scoring requirements for each band of the test. Participants will practice different language task types through a variety of activities, lectures, role-play, games and assignments. This course will be taught by an active IELTS Speaking and Writing examiner. Saturdays, 9:00am to 11:00am, Wellesley Hills, $200

#8432 AP127-300: TOEFL

The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) measures the ability of nonnative speakers of English to use and understand English as it is spoken, written and heard in college and university settings. A high TOEFL score is required by most US colleges and universities for admission of international and ESL students. TOEFL Preparation will prepare you to take the new IBT TOEFL (Internet-based) test. In this class you will study each of the four required sections: writing, reading, speaking and listening. You will learn what to expect on the test and practice answering questions similar to those that actually appear on the test. You will be guided through the entire application process. Along with practice tests you will also learn first-year college vocabulary and study Greek and Latin roots as well as affixes that will help boost your score. This course will help prepare you to demonstrate your readiness for academic coursework. Saturday, 1:30pm to 4:30pm, Wellesley Hills, $300
