Grains closed mixed today. Soybeans and corn closed higher while wheat closed lower. Funds were net buyers of 8k corn contracts, 20k soybean contracts and net sellers of 10k wheat contracts today.

Soybean futures provided price leadership today fueled by unexpected friendly numbers in the USDA September WASDE report. Acreage and yield reductions in both soybeans and corn combined with an unexpected reduction in soybean yield (corn yield reduction was in line with trade expectations) caused USDA to lower US production estimates to 13.944 bil bu corn and 4.378 bil bu soybeans, both below average trade estimates and last month. USDA also made downward adjustments to the demand side of the balance tables. See page 3 for all the USDA numbers and links to analysis and graphics. See page 4 for the September USDA corn and soybean balance tables. Traders will assume that a small crop gets smaller, which means that these balance tables will likely get tighter in future reports.

Thursday USDA will release the last 4 weeks of weekly export sales data. There could be surprises Thursday.
