Grains closed higher today on friendly numbers in the USDA Quarterly Grain Stocks and Acreage report. USDA June reports were bullish compared to trade expectations, with all three major stocks levels as of June 1 coming below estimates (anywhere from 15-30 million bushels), and corn and soybean acres each more than a million below the trade guesses coming in (though soybeans were steady at corn was up 1.6 mln acres from March). See page 2 for a summary of the numbers and a link to the Executive Summary with analysis and graphics. Funds were estimated net buyers of 30k corn contracts 30k soybean contracts and 15k wheat contracts today.

Weather events and weather forecasts will remain a major component of price action given the numbers in today's USDA reports. Commodity Weather Group in a blog post late this morning noted wet forecasts for mid-next week, but also warned of rising temperatures following that rain event into the 11-15 day; temps are already seen into the upper 90's in the Dakotas/NE/KS, but CWG said that could be understating.
