Good morning,

Corn and beans both in the red at the morning break as we are over the hump of the week. Been a pretty rough week thus far with 1 day to go. Brazil's CONAB numbers out this morning had a slight drop in bean production. Total corn production caught a pretty good jump going from 131.974 MMTs versus 128.253 MMTs in from the June report. USDA WASDE report out tomorrow at 11. Weather forecast looks pretty favorable for pollination as we have 3 days with highs over 88 the next 10 days. Some rain chances over the next couple days. Hopefully those who have been missing them will get some.
