Happy FriYay!

Green across the board this morning. Corn up a nickel, beans up a dime at the morning break. Soy oil showed some strength yesterday carrying crush higher, seeing follow through this morning. Also sounds like there's been some direction dictated on 45z not 100% done but seems like progress has been made on what the guidelines could be. Temps remain pretty mild as we head into the weekend. We heat back up as we reach mid-week next week. Good chances of showers starting tomorrow through Tuesday. The heart of the corn belt projected to get anywhere from 1.5 to 2 inches in the next 7 days.
