Good Morning,

Corn and beans both up across the board this morning. The Pro farmer tour wrapped up on Friday with a 182.7 bpa estimate. That is substantially lower than the 188.8 the USDA came out with. On the other hand soybean pod counts were a record and would indicate a higher soybean yield potential compared to USDA. Cooler temps have worked there way through the Midwest this week feel like fall to end the summer. Not great chances of showers in 7 day models for most of the corn belt.
