Happy 1st day of the NFL season to those who celebrate. Corn up a penny, beans down 6 at the break. Not really too much going on overnight again as we creep closer to harvest getting started. Would expect this trend to continue unless we get a big geopolitical headline. Got about 2 tenths of rain overnight at my house that seems pretty uniform across most the corn belt. There were some heavier pockets in Iowa and Missouri. Cooler temps this morning that will hang around for awhile. We will see what the day brings!
