Happy Monday!

Corn down a couple beans up a penny and a half. Not much out there for fresh news over the weekend. We got a USDA WASDE report on Friday this week. Trade is expecting a drop in production for both corn and beans. We will see what the USDA says. These lovely cooler temps are going to the way side this week as we get back just under 90 degrees on Wednesday. Things are gonna dry down quickly as this heat wave looks like it will hang around for about 10 days. No really good precipitation chances out there.
