Nutrition

Calving Cows..... take care of Nutrition

Energy and protein requirements double as cows move from gestation to lactation. It is very important that beef producers manage nutrition so that cows don't begin to lose weight during this critical time. Feeding plenty of hay is a great starting point. Monitor consumption of liquid feed and other self-fed products to be sure cattle are getting proper consumption. Some beef producers feed extra cubes during this time to assure enough energy.

Heifer Development

Purina's Accuration Cattle Limiter has been the industry standard for growing heifers for 20+ years. Nothing has changed! Cattle Limiter is a non-salt based supplement that utilizes Purina's Intake Modifier technology to get the right amount of protein and energy to developing heifers. Beef producers feed their own hay with Cattle Limiter to get heifers ready to breed on time. The next 60-90 days are critical for growing heifers. Give us a call so we might help you reach your heifer development goals.
