

Architects in Egypt: A Preliminary Bibliography

Compiled by Omar Khalidi

Literature by and about architects constitutes the primary basis for research for any country and era. In order to facilitate research on architecture in Islamic countries, I compiled a bibliography of journal articles and books on architects who practiced in Egypt since the 19th century to the present. Given that the bibliography was compiled from electronic databases and published work available in the United States, all references are in English or European languages. Needless to say, books and journal articles in Arabic and other languages produced within Egypt and other countries would also need to be indexed in order to make the bibliography comprehensive. Readers are welcome to send citations not found in this bibliography. It is hoped that this first attempt to compile a bibliography of architects in the Islamic world can be used as a prototype to develop similar bibliographies for all the Islamic countries.
