The Consequences of Untreated Hearing Loss

Because hearing is a mental process, untreated or poorly treated hearing loss can lead to negative consequences for your brain.

For your brain to work in the way it is meant to, it needs the full sound perspective.

• Social isolation and depression

People with untreated hearing loss may reach a stage where they avoid social gatherings because they are unable to cope with complex sound environments. This increases the risk of loneliness, social isolation and depression.

• Poor balance and fall-related injuries

Untreated hearing loss can affect people's balance, which increases the risk of fall-related injuries three-fold.

• Accelerated cognitive decline

Increased mental load, lack of stimulation, and reorganized brain functionality are linked to accelerated cognitive decline, which affects your ability to remember, learn, concentrate and make decisions.

• Dementia and Alzheimer's disease

The risk for dementia is increased five-fold for severe-to-profound hearing loss, three-fold for moderate hearing loss and two-fold for mild hearing loss.
