

CALL FOR CHAPTER PROPOSALS

We invite you to submit your proposal for an edited book about low resource strategies for faculty development to be published by Information Age Publishing (IAP.)

Faculty Development on a Shoestring

Edited by Diane Chapman and Michelle Bartlett, NC State University

This book will be a collection of faculty development strategies that may be implemented with little to no budget. Each chapter will describe one strategy that can be implemented to help college or university faculty be more successful in their work. The full chapter will provide details on every aspect of the strategy so that others can implement it in their institutions with little to no resources. Strategies are expected to cover faculty work such as teaching, advising, engagement, leadership, research, and service. Strategies covering other aspects of faculty work will also be considered.

Chapter proposals should be about a faculty development strategy that has been used successfully. Please detail what resources are needed, (both in budget and time), benefits to faculty, and challenges (how you overcame them if applicable). Interested scholars should submit a proposal using this form by March 1, 2022. The form asks for the author's and co-authors' names and affiliations, contact information for the corresponding author, a tentative chapter title, outline of the chapter, resources needed for implementation (both in budget and time), benefits to faculty, and challenges (& how you overcame them if applicable), and five keywords.

Early submissions are encouraged. All submissions will undergo an initial review resulting in possible recommendation for submissions of full chapter manuscript submission. The proposal should be a previously unpublished work. Acceptance of the chapter proposal will be sent by the end of March 2022. Upon acceptance of the chapter proposal, the final chapter should be completed not later than May 2022. Contributions will be blind, peer-reviewed and returned with comments by August 2022. Finalized chapters are due no later than November 2022. The final contributions should not exceed 20 double-spaced manuscript pages. Guidelines for preparing chapters will be sent to authors upon acceptance of the proposal. Authors will be expected to work in close collaboration with the editors to ensure the expectations of a publication entry are met. They will also be expected to communicate their progress bi-monthly with the editors. Additionally, all authors who are selected to submit full chapters will be expected to review at least one other accepted chapter contribution.

Tentative Timeline

March 1, 2022

Proposal due including title, abstract, keywords

March 2022

Notification and additional information for accepted authors

May 2022

Chapter drafts due

August 2022

Chapters returned with reviewers' comments

November 2022

Final chapters due

Proposals are due March 1, 2022

Submit your proposal here: <https://forms.gle/k1t49zUSsDZrnf18>

Questions? Contact Diane Chapman at ddchapma@ncsu.edu