What to Do:
Print on cardstock and cut apart. Provide one set for every three kids.

What armor do you need?

1. You think that you only need to obey your parents when they are looking.
2. You are really scared about what will happen to you because you keep overhearing your parents fight.
3. Your father lost his job, and now you are worried about how your family will pay for the things everyone needs.
4. You got in a fight with your friend, and you told them you never want to talk to them again. Now you regret it, but you don't want to be the first to apologize.
5. You think it's okay to lie as long as it's just a little lie.
6. A group of kids at school made fun of how you look. You start not to like the way God made you.
7. Your friends try to convince you to steal a small piece of candy from the teacher's reward jar. They told you that it's only wrong to steal if it hurts someone.
8. You're convinced you will never be able to play well on the team because you keep tripping over the ball.
9. Your mom keeps telling you to clean your room. You're irritated at her constant reminders and feel like yelling back at her.
10. You see two friends at school get in a fight, and you know it was a big misunderstanding.
11. Your brother tattled on you, and now you have a plan to get even.
12. You know it's wrong, but you're tempted to sign the note about bad behavior that your teacher sent home. You know your dad will be mad and take away some of your privileges if he sees it.

Note: You know your kids the best. Some of the provided scenarios might cause stress or trauma depending on what your kids are going through. Please use your discretion on which scenarios to share with your group based on what you know about them.
