Eipperle Family 2024

After having a busy calendar during the Spring we were looking forward to a Summer slowdown. But it turned out Summer was busier than Spring. So I gave up hope thinking Fall would be less hectic. Which was a good decision. More and more things keep getting added to the calendar. Planning went from a month by month perspective, to a week by week strategy, then a day by day tactic, and now we are fine tuning each hour of the day to stay on top of things.

The photo above was taken during our third camping trip of the year. The weather and location was ideal. We had a lot of fun. At the last minute I squeezed two small bicycles into our popup camper. The bikes became a highlight for the kids. Even the oldest were riding them.

Financial Support

Our monthly support deficit has been reduced to about $700. We are humbled each time we open a report and see that someone has increased their giving. Thank you for the support.

Annual Conference

In two weeks I will be flying to Chiang Mai, Thailand for the fourth Operation World annual conference. I've never been to Asia before. I usually fly to other countries going east. This time I will be going west and over the Pacific Ocean. I anticipate some completely new to me sights, smells, and experiences.

God has provided for my travel and conference expenses through your generous giving. Thank you for your prayers and support.

Things to pray for...

- While I spend ten days on the other side of the planet; pray for Carrie and the children while I am away. Pray that the kids will step up and help with work around the house.
- Pray for the Operation World team during the upcoming conference. Many decisions will be made. This will be the very first time every member of the team is able to attend. Pray for blessed fellowship times and friendships to grow.
- Pray for Ukraine. That God would protect and strengthen the country to defend itself.
