Hindered Prayers

⁷Husbands, likewise, dwell with them with understanding, giving honor to the wife, as to the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life, that your prayers may not be hindered. 1Pet.3:7

None of us who pray want to do anything that would hinder our prayers, and yet the Word is very explicit that our relationships with others affects our relationship with God. Specifically, how we treat our spouse causes God to open or close the doors of heaven.

If you can't love people who you can see, how can you love God whom you can't see. Our Christianity has to work on a day to day example with those we know. God help us to be real and genuine in our faith!
