The times it's the most difficult with God and we feel like failures is when our hands are closed around what He is asking us to let go of. We ask "Why?" and He is asking us to allow Him to be Who He is and heal us.

Question: Can you relate to this? Explain ...

When we "show up", be completely present and allow God to be Himself, wonderful, powerful things happen.

Thailand's society is built on Karma. It teaches you that you get what you deserve.

Question: Have you approached life or look at others similar to what karma says is true? How?

The gospel comes along and says we don't get what we deserve. Not only spared but given a seat at God's family table.

Question: How does this truth transform how you live your life? How does it change how you look at and relate to others?

Question: How have you looked at Acts 1:8? As progressive, "Jerusalem, AND THEN ..."? Or as all at the same time as "Jerusalem, and Judea ..."? How does this change how you approach to Jesus directive to be His witness?

Question: How is it possible to go in multiple directions all at once? Do you know what part of the family of God you are called to be a part of? What direction is He asking you to go? What is God asking YOU to do?
