

Cape Cod Ragnar Relay Race Update!

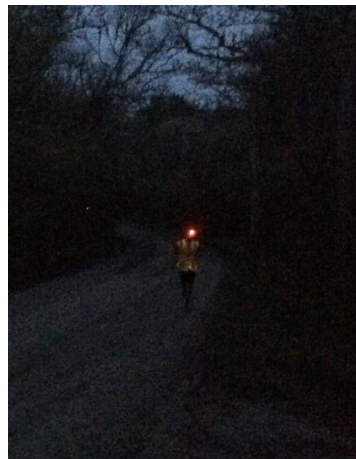

Some pre-race fun with Cassie before Loren kicked off the race.

I think Jeff would agree that Robert Frost's famous line, "And miles to go before I sleep," could have been from a Ragnar brochure.

The 6 teenage guys on the team came ready to run!

Mason's 10.5-mile run was in the rain and dark.

New friends and old: I met Tim in early April but have known Chuck since high school. Most of the team didn't know each other before the race.

Tom passed the baton to Travis after running 9.93 miles in his mustard outfit. 😊

The team ran 192 miles in just over 27 hours, good enough for 67th place out of 510 teams!

With 510
12-person (mostly)
teams, large white
passenger vans
were EVERYWHERE!

Dylan and Keith are a father-son pair. It was fun to see Keith pass the baton off to Dylan – I love
the mentoring
symbolism. ☺

Kesler (passing the baton to Chuck) not only ran his 3 legs of the race but also willingly ran a fourth leg after Keith injured his ankle.

Tom met Dylan last year when Tom joined our ministry team at Dylan's school. They're only one grade apart, and it was fun to see them

I greatly appreciated Anji's willingness to join the team last-minute, especially without knowing ANYONE!

Crossing the finish line together!

A HUGE thank you to the whole team, including John Atwater, who drove one of the vehicles! You've all blessed me more than you'll ever know! See you next year?! ;)
