

Glen White is a technical director that brings over twenty years of leadership, guidance and effective decision-making skills within the company. He is responsible for providing technical direction on business decisions and execution of specific projects related to technologies.

---

White ensures technical equipment is functional and safe, and handles the overall technical aspects of the organization in film and television. He has worked on several films, television, and theatrical productions within the company, and is also the author of Bonded with Jesus, soon to be published.