“No, O people, the Lord has told you what is good and what he requires of you, to do what is right, to love mercy and to walk humbly with God. “ Micah 6:8

I have run into this verse several times this past week—God is clearly trying to get my attention. I love that we serve a God who gives us new mercies each morning.

I look forward to New Years and setting new goals to achieve. I am constantly wanting to better myself, and I love encouraging the people around me to do the same. I typically question my loved ones often about their goals and try to push them out of their comfort zones. I journal my own thoughts and goals, and I pray over them. My goals this year are not mediocre goals, and I think this verse is reminding me that my ultimate goal should be this—to do what is right, to love mercy and to walk humbly with God. It is not about what I have planned, but it's about what God has planned and what I let Him do through me. Sweet friends, I hope you are aiming to be the best you can be through Christ, not yourselves.

“Whatever you do, work heartily, as for the Lord and not for men, knowing that from the Lord you will receive the inheritance as your reward. You are serving the Lord Christ.” Colossians 3:23
