Newsletter # 15
September 26th, 2017

Hi Everybody,

We hope and pray that you are having a wonderful autumn in North America. Sarah and Caleb safely returned to Dakar on Sunday, September 24th. The combined 24-hours of traveling is grueling for almost anybody, let alone a mother with a newborn. By God's grace, they made their connections and had extra help from a DA family on the flight from New York to Dakar.

While much of North America experiences cooler temperatures with the start of Autumn, Senegal enters the hottest time of year. Please pray for Sarah and Caleb as they make the dramatic adjustment from the mild, dry climate of Colorado Springs to the hot, sultry climate of West Africa.

October is also one of the busiest times of year on the Dakar Academy campus. Next week, Sarah will begin teaching two Bible classes and start a professional mentorship program for new teachers. This, along with being a full-time mom. Paul has been extremely active with counseling staff, students, and missionaries in the region. By now, many of you have heard about the increased violence in parts of West Africa. Paul has had the opportunity to counsel some of those impacted by the violence so that they can heal and hopefully stay in the field.

This is also an exciting time for missionaries in the region as we hear about the Bible being translated into new languages and see the impact of the gospel on the lives of a growing number of Senegalese converts. Clearly, God remains at work in West Africa.

Fresh off the plane, Caleb is now making friends with the locals. This is our coworker, Aileen.

Prayer Requests

- ✚ Continued prayers for Caleb's health. The latest challenge seems to be colic, which has kept us both awake at all hours dealing with an inconsolable baby.
- ✚ Ongoing prayers for missionaries around the region who have been impacted by the Islamist-led violence. Prayers for those families who have been forced to evacuate.
