

This is What I Was Made For!

Week 2: Find Freedom
DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

RECAP

In the second week of this series, we continued the idea that helping people get to the point where they can say about their life, “This is what I was made for!” happens not only when we know God, but when we find freedom, and how we can do that through MTVgroups.

MTVGROUP QUESTIONS

1. Josh started by talking about the story of Israel, stating that once God took Israel out of Egypt, he had to start taking Egypt out of Israel. Have you ever experienced anything like that? Have you ever had an experience, either good or bad, that lingered in you long after the experience ended?
2. Josh said that too many Christians are free but not living in freedom because they are chained to their past. Is that true of you or perhaps someone you love? What are some difficult circumstances that have shackled you or loved ones in the past? How (if at all) did they find freedom?
3. Read James 5:14-16. Josh stated that the best way to find freedom is together but that contemporary society actually discourages biblical community. Do you agree or disagree? What are some specific examples of how modern society has made true community more difficult?
4. If you were honest with yourself and with the people in your group, in what areas would you say you still need to find freedom, either from your yesterday or from an addiction or situation that is plaguing your today? What can your group do to help you?
5. Who in your circle of influence needs to find freedom? Who can you invite to do life with your MTVgroup?

NEXT STEPS

If you're reading this in an MTVgroup then congratulations! You're on the right path. As a group talk about how you as a group can take your group and your level of connection to a deeper level. Pray for each other that you would help each other all find true freedom.
