

But what should I bring to Camp in order to get the most out of this experience?

Bring:

Sleeping bag
Pillow
Bathing Suit (guys, no speedo; gals, if wearing a two-piece, you'll need to wear a shirt too)
Towel
Jacket/Sweatshirt (think "layers" as it is often chilly in the morning and evening, but hot when the sun's out)
Flashlight
Deodorant
A nice set of clothes for the "fancy" Final Dinner Meal
Toiletry items
Closed toed shoes (flip-flops are allowed when traveling to-&-from the pool)
Bible & Journal & pen
Sun protection (glasses, hat, sunblock...)
Spending Money for snack-bar (no more than $30) ... [there will also be an optional "Missionary Offering" on the last day]

Don't Bring:

Any electronic devices (iPods, iPads, cell phones, etc.)
Books/magazines (nothing to distract from the experience)
Knives or fire-making items
Weapons of any kind
Personal Snacks (these are critter-attractors)
Bad Attitudes

Of course, if there are specific exceptions needed, the parent can work that out with the camp director, Dean Dilger.
