

TIPS ON HOW TO HANG CLOTHES

This is an example of the four most common kid-size hangers:

1. WIRE DRIP-DRY - COATED OR PLAIN METAL (HARDER TO FIND, TRY HOUSEWARE SECTION OR DRY-CLEANERS)
2. THINNER PLASTIC TRIANGULAR (DELTA BRAND - WALMART BABY SECTION)
3. THICK/FLAT PLASTIC SHIRT HANGER (FREE WITH STORE PURCHASED CLOTHES)
4. THICK/TUBULAR PLASTIC TRIANGULAR (HOUSEWARE SECTION)

Other examples of common hangers:

5. KID SIZE PLASTIC PANT HANGER WITH PINCHES (FREE WITH STORE PURCHASED CLOTHES - PUSH DOWN METAL PINCH)
6. KID SIZE PLASTIC PANT HANGER WITH PINCHES (FREE WITH STORE PURCHASED CLOTHES - SQUEEZE PINCH)
7. ADULT SIZE WIRE DRIP-DRY (COMMON AT DRY CLEANERS - SOME GIVE FREE ONES)
8. ADULT SIZE THICK/TUBULAR PLASTIC TRIANGULAR (HOUSEWARE SECTION)

Any of these hangers will work, if you have them in your house, but if you can choose and you need to buy some, I suggest purchasing the following hangers:

- 1 and 7 for 2pc outfits (most little outfits fit on adult wire hangers that are easier to find for free, but if the clothing looks too stretched out then use the kid size. The shirt below is a 24m on an adult wire hanger; it does not look that bad. 5T and up are fine on adult size hangers);

- 2 for tops/dresses/sleepers (items that just hang) - $1 for 10 units at Walmart, Delta brand in baby section.

When you buy a packet of safety pins, most of them will be medium size and small, as in the picture. There will be very few big ones. You will need to buy a separate package for those. If you use hangers 1 and 7 you will be able to use the medium size safety pins to pin outfits together because they will fit around the thin wire hanger. Really tiny pins are great to attach tags to the garments.

If you only have medium/little pins and thick hangers there are a few ways to get around having to buy big safety pins.

The above 3pc outfit is hung on hanger 3, which is a thick one, but the pins used are medium size. The pins do not touch the hanger, they are just attached to the top from its seem. The downside of this is that the bottom items may pull on the top, but if there is no way around it, you do what you got to do!

The above 2pc outfit is hung on hanger 4, the thickest hanger, with two medium size safety pins. This method is sturdier than the preceding one, but it can only be done when there aren't many layers to work with.

This is the best way to hang a 2pc (or more) outfit. The pin should pass through the two garments and around the hanger, this way the weight of the pants won't stretch out the top. This, of course, can only be done with wire hangers, unless you have big safety pins. Sometimes hanger 2 is thin enough to use pins that are bigger than the medium ones but smaller than the really big ones. Just try them and see how it works out.

This is another way to get around having to buy big safety pins when you only have thick hangers and there are too many layers to work with. This is not the best option, but it will do. The two garments are pinned together and they are just 'resting' on the hanger, on both sides. Cons: the outfit may slide from side to side and it's not secured to the hanger; Pros: you can use the supplies you have!

Please secure tank tops, strappy dresses, swim suits and any garment that has straps with a safety pin so the item won't fall off the hanger.

Hangers 5 and 6 can be used to hang bottoms (pants/skirts/shorts etc.). Hanger 5 is better because the garment won't fall off unless you really pull on it. If you only have hanger 6 please secure the garment with a big safety pin (if you have one), like the picture below, and to save pins you can attach the tag to the same pin.

BIGGER SIZE CLOTHES AND MATERNITY

This is the proper way to hang bigger size pants/skirts. Use a wire hanger if you have one so you can use medium size pins. Please hang the item at the top of the hanger, not at the bottom, because otherwise it will slide on one side and it won't be noticed nor sold. If you only have thicker hangers and small pins, please look at the pictures below.

This does not look as good, but it will do. Use medium pins to wrap the top of the garment around the top of the thick hanger on the two spots where the hanger indents, then use two other pins to pin the pants together.

Hope this helps, and please contact me for any other question concerning the preparation of your items for the sale!

Have a lovely day,

Lisa Bragg
