Focusing on Jesus

Today we begin the third and final unit of our series on the Resurrection Power of Jesus, focusing on the Resurrected Life—what it means not just that Jesus rose from the dead, but how His resurrection now shapes the way we live and follow Him. In John 21, we see exactly what that looks like.

There are moments in life when clarity cuts through the noise—when you know exactly what you're supposed to do. John 21 captures one of those moments. After denying Jesus three times, Peter now stands face-to-face with the risen Lord, and instead of shame, he receives restoration. Three times Jesus asks, “Do you love Me?”—and with each response comes a clear calling: “Feed My sheep.” He's met with restoration and direction, and for a moment, everything is clear.

But that clarity doesn't last long. Peter turns, notices another disciple, and asks, “Lord, what about this man?” It's a natural response—one any of us might have. And in that moment, Jesus addresses a real danger for all of us: even when we know what He has called us to do, there is a pull to look around, compare, and measure our path against someone else's. Jesus answers with direct simplicity: “What is that to you? You follow Me.” His words pull Peter—and us—back to what matters most. We're not called to manage someone else's story, but to walk faithfully in our own. So don't lose focus. Fix your eyes on Jesus, stay grounded in what He has set before you, and keep following Him wherever He leads.
