In the Presence of the Mighty

For as long as I can remember, I've had a fascination with alligators. As an adult I've followed the work of wildlife biologists and conservationists, taken many trips into the Everglades and handled smaller crocodilians. But until last month I'd never had an up close and personal encounter with an adult alligator. So for my birthday Bill spent weeks planning a big surprise: He took me to an alligator wonderland where I had the opportunity to interact face-to-face (without barriers) with a 12-foot, 750-pound adult alligator!

I'd always imagined if I ever had the opportunity to interact with a large adult alligator, it would of course be a fascinating experience but also probably tinged with a bit of trepidation. (Or maybe more than a little bit!) Alligators are apex predators, after all. These ancient behemoths are powerful, unpredictable, lightning fast, and capable of catastrophic devastation.

Yet when the moment finally arrived, I was surprised that fear was the one thing I didn't feel.

I walked across the grass until I was standing right in front of the alligator. The handlers stood nearby but not directly beside me. I bent down in front of the alligator's massive gaping mouth to feed him several pieces of gator chow, and I could see his dark marble eyes fixed on mine. He was watching my every move. I remember feeling acutely aware that no barrier stood between us.

The experience that day brought to mind the biblical imagery of Leviathan which many Bible commentators believe refers to a crocodile. "Can you draw out Leviathan with a fish hook?" God asked Job, a reminder that some creatures possess power far beyond the ability of humans to control them.

And yet Scripture also says, speaking of the sea and the sea creatures that God created, "There go the ships, and Leviathan, which You formed to play in it." To me that contrast is both mesmerizing and striking: A creature that strikes fear in the human heart, yet God describes almost playfully. The Lord is sovereign over all things: from the lions that surrounded Daniel and even the jaws of a massive alligator. There is nothing that is outside of His control.

It is a truism that faith does not promise a danger-free life; it promises the faithful keeping of the One who holds us. We shouldn't act in a reckless way, but we also aren't called to let fear dictate our decisions. During the alligator encounter that day, I relied on what I knew about alligator behavior and also trusted the handlers who were nearby in case anything went wrong. They couldn't eliminate all risk; nothing can when dealing with a creature whose bite force crushes bone within seconds. If an alligator decides to lunge and grab you, there's not much anyone can do.

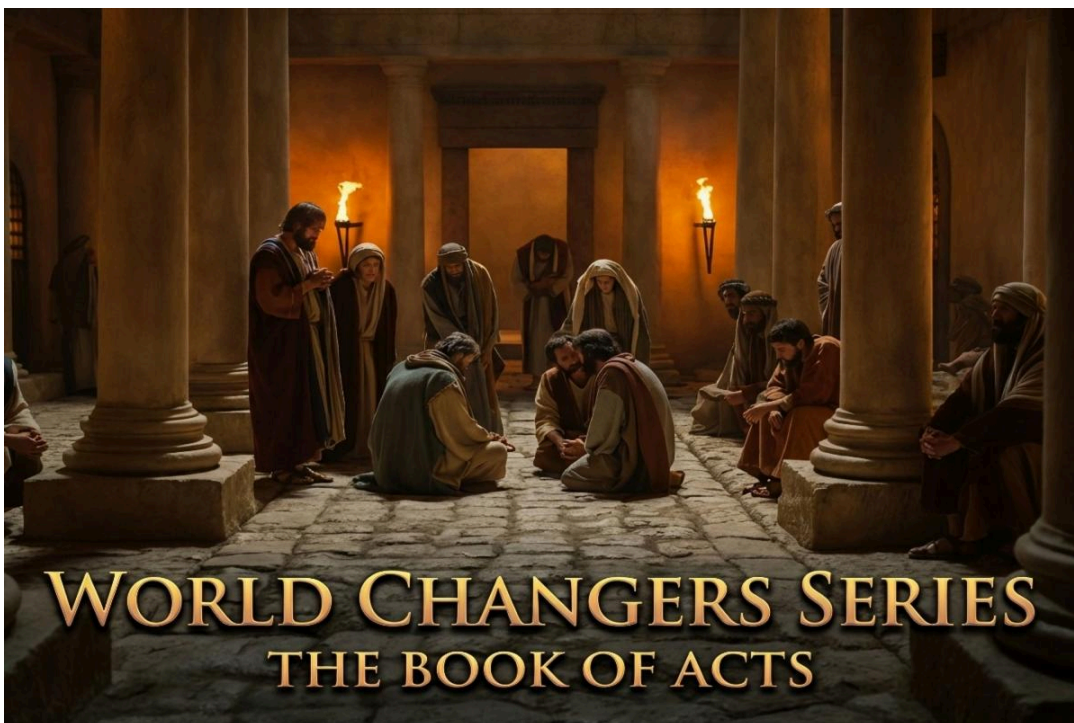

This is true as a general principle. Risk itself is unavoidable and we're not meant to live life in a bubble. If we did, we'd never travel to unfamiliar and sometimes dangerous places, try new things or explore any of the wonders God created for us to enjoy in this beautiful yet untamed world.

Standing in the presence of the mighty alligator that day, I remember feeling such awe for the creature God had made and also a renewed awe for the God who holds our days in His hands. Jesus said, "I have come that they may have life and have it to the full." Sometimes fullness of life awaits just on the other side of fear.

Blessings,

Director of Communications

This is Brandon. He was formerly a wild alligator but was captured and relocated to a sanctuary because he was being a nuisance in the community. At 12 feet long and 750 pounds, he was enormous and also impressively toothy in a cute (albeit reptilian) sort of way.

MESSAGE FOR THIS SUNDAY, JANUARY 11
"The Outpouring"
Acts 2

In this twelve-week series on the Book of Acts, we will discover and be challenged by the amazing group of Christian converts who turned the Roman Empire upside down through the power of the Holy Spirit. This coming Sunday we will focus on Acts 2 with a message looking at how the transforming power of the Holy Spirit spread the Gospel message so quickly and the encouraging message delivered by the Apostle Peter.

BUILDING UPDATE

The construction has finally begun as of this past Tuesday!!! Please keep the working crew in your prayers as some of them experienced flu symptoms the day they started the construction. Prayers for health and safety and healing for everyone working on our building would be greatly appreciated.

SEND US YOUR PRAYER REQUESTS!

Sandia Fellowship has a dedicated Prayer Ministry that intercedes weekly for various needs and requests. The Apostle Paul wrote, "Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus." (Philippians 4:6-7)

There is no prayer need "too small" or "too big" for the Lord. If our hearts are burdened by anything, God wants us to bring it to Him in prayer -- and He promises us His peace when we do.

You can submit a prayer request in one of three ways:

- Send a request through our website or click the red button below.
- Email us at prayer@sandiagmc.org.
- Fill out a Prayer Request card available at the Welcome Tables on Sunday mornings.

If you'd like to be a part of this Prayer Ministry, please email Holly at hklein@sandiagmc.org.
