ON THAT DARKEST DAY

by Arla Olsen

As dawn broke on that darkest of days, lightning pierced the leaden sky, Thunder roared, the earth shook as He hung on the Cross,

The Son of God, now about to die...

Pain engulfed His bloodstained form, as he shouted
“My God, My God, why have you forsaken me?”

His cry was heard, above the turbulent and overwhelming storm...

Jesus, the One who was loved, but hated too, He had healed and taught many people what to do...

How to live a righteous and prayerful life, showing mercy to those in the midst of strife...

He was mocked, jeered at and called a liar and fraud,
Pilate first believed Him then got caught up with the mob,

Who shouted “Crucify Him, Crucify Him,” He is no good...

The Romans beat and tortured Him, and placed Him high upon a wooden Cross, nails pierced His hands and feet - His head hung low,

And those who buried Him thought that all was lost;

But amazingly, somehow, the stone at the tomb
was rolled away,

And He was Risen as He said, and raised up from the dead,

And Resurrected into Heavenly Glory, turning the darkest day into the brightest and most glorious everlasting Light!

Now we are forgiven of our sins because of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. This day we celebrate Him... we celebrate Easter! Alleluia!
