First United Methodist Church May 2018

My Dear Sisters and Brothers in Christ,

It is interesting what items we use in life to mark the passage of time. Some people use calendars, others prefer clocks, and some even admit to having birthdays to let them know how much time has passed. When I was in seminary, I remember watching the indicator sticker on our water filter. Every three months it would slowly change from green to red and then it would be time to replace the filter. I can remember thinking things like, “Wow, the next time we change the filter my mid-terms will be over” and “The color has changed from green to clear (marking the half-life of the filter) and that means it’s time to begin researching my Methodist Polity paper.” Throughout my years in seminary that filter indicator helped me to organize my chaotic life into manageable sections and helped me to focus on what needed to get done. I know it sounds a little goofy, but then again it worked for me. That was just what I needed at that point in time in my life; some sort of reminder to not lose hope and let myself fall into despair thinking that seminary would never end. Believe it or not, I actually thanked God for that filter indicator as I knew that he was using it to remind me that he hadn’t called me to a task too difficult for me to endure. So for the next four years I watched the indicator go from green to red to green to red and back to green as we replaced it. And then one day it was time to graduate; I had done it! Seminary was over and the next chapter of my life could begin

By now you’re probably thinking that your pastor is a bit nuts (does this really surprise you) and why in the world would he write about this in the newsletter. I wanted to share this with you because of a reading that I came across during my daily devotionals. It is one that I’m sure most of you are already familiar with. The passage I’m referring to can be found in the third chapter of Ecclesiastes (various verses).

For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven

A time to be born, and a time to die

A time to plant, and a time to harvest

A time to cry and a time to laugh

A time to grieve and a time to dance

God has made everything beautiful for its own time and He has planted eternity into our minds.

Too often we try to place a value on time. We relate its worth solely to ourselves or to the importance of the project we are working on.

“My time is too valuable to waste listening to idle chit chat”

“I’m sorry mom. I just don’t have time to visit this year as work is taking all of my time.”

Can you see from these examples how we tend to fool ourselves into believing that not only does time belong to us, but that we have somehow been given authority to place a value on it? But according to scripture, this is far from the case. The verses in Ecclesiastes remind us that time actually belongs to God and it is God who determines its value. No matter how much we want to control it, time will only be subject to the almighty creator.

I'd like you to ponder this for a moment. Think about the ways you spend your time or the priorities that you place on your time. Then stop and ask yourself a question that I continually ask myself, "Whose time is? Is it really my time, or is it God's time and he has blessed me with the gift of life that I might enjoy it?" And if it really is God's time then we have to ask what it is that we are doing with it. Have we packed God's time so full of things that only benefit us that we have no time left over for the one who gave it to us in the first place? Are we giving God only 1 hour out of the 168 hours each week and telling ourselves that even that can sometimes be too much? This can be a hard realization to have to come to terms with and we avoid these kinds of questions because we don't want to deal with the answers. But the long and short of it is, time belongs to God; all of it. And being the loving God that God is, we have all been blessed in abundance with some of God's time. And we have been told to enjoy it, put it to good and productive use. Fill it with work and play, laughing and crying, planting and harvesting. But in all that we do, we should remember to give glory and honor to the one who has given us this precious gift. And we should also remember to include spending personal time with God as well. After all, whose time is it anyway?

Blessings be upon you all

Pastor Monty Fox

The offerings you made last month empowered ministry within our congregation and in response to the needs of our community. It also helped support global United Methodist initiatives in the focus on Abundant Health, such as the recent United Methodist Day of Health held in Dunwoody, GA. This event, sponsored by our Global Ministries agency in Atlanta, brought together clergy and laity from across the U.S. to share in their passion for spreading the word about health and wholeness for all Christ followers. Workshops provided training on varied topics in nutrition and exercise, and even included instruction on making your own hula hoop, and the benefits of this fun way of getting a workout. Other breakout workshops included HIV-Aids, accessibility of facilities, and physical, emotional and spiritual health and wholeness. This ministry happens thanks to the generous support of United Methodists like you. I invite you once again to give generously as we worship God through the sharing of our gifts, tithes, and offerings.

A Prayer In Spring - Poem by Robert Frost

Oh, give us pleasure in the flowers to-day;
And give us not to think so far away
As the uncertain harvest; keep us here
All simply in the springing of the year.

Oh, give us pleasure in the orchard white,
Like nothing else by day, like ghosts by night;
And make us happy in the happy bees,
The swarm dilating round the perfect trees.

And make us happy in the darting bird
That suddenly above the bees is heard,
The meteor that thrusts in with needle bill,
And off a blossom in mid air stands still.

For this is love and nothing else is love,
The which it is reserved for God above
To sanctify to what far ends He will,
But which it only needs that we fulfil.

Active Military

Do you have a family member serving in the military? Please contact the Sue Meyer, Ruth Bower, or Danice Loveridge and let us know so we can be encouraging and praying for them. Here is what we need:

- Name of active family member and their relation to you
- Branch of military
- Location serving
- Address to send correspondence

What Visiting Team?

Can you imagine what it would be like to be unable to attend worship due to illness or injury and not having anyone from your church contact you? Many churches do not have a team to visit those unable to attend worship and rely solely on the pastor to do this. At FUMC we are blessed to have a visiting team to bring communion and other items from worship to those in the hospital, recovering at home or staying in assisted living environments. To continue this ministry, we are looking for new team members and a team leader. If you are interested in joining this team, or if you know of other persons who we should be visiting, please contact Jeanette Gardner at 815-494-4383.

Hospitality Team

Do you have a knack for helping people feel welcome? Would you like to meet the visitors to our church? Do you like media and publishing? Then our Hospitality Team may be the place for you. We would like to form a team to discuss hosting weekly fellowship after worship in Perry Hall, develop a new visitor protocol, and develop informational packets for attendees at major holidays. Contact Anna Wandtke at 815-323-4407 or wandtke@yahoo.com for more information.

Grieving the loss of someone close to you?

Find comfort and support at GriefShare. The support group will be held Tuesday evenings from 7:00-9:00pm, beginning April 17, 2018 in the parlor. The program runs for thirteen weeks. Cost: $20 per participant for workbooks. Any questions or to register, call Helen at 815-784-5151/ helen@sycamoreprecision.com or Peggy at 815-494-2920/ pegwolf@gmail.com. ## The Spoon Theory

I am so blessed to have such a loving and caring congregation to worship with. Every Sunday someone asks me how my back is. With a smile I usually respond, "Some days are better than others. Thank you for asking." If I am in a great deal of pain you will probably not hear me admit it. With osteoarthritis and degenerative disc disease in my spine along with fibromyalgia, chronic pain is normal part of my daily life. None of those conditions are life threatening, but they are life altering. I am not mentioning this so anyone would have pity on me, but rather to share a concept with you called Spoon Theory.

Spoon theory was created in 2003 by Christine Miserandino, a lupus sufferer. In order to help a friend understand the expenditure of energy for everyday tasks for a chronic pain sufferer, Christine equated spoons to energy. Let's assume the average person starts their day with 15-16 spoons (One for each waking hour). To obtain an idea of how many spoons it takes to function on a normal day, deduct one spoon for each energy equivalent a task takes. For instance, getting up, dressed and having breakfast takes one spoon. Driving to work takes another. Working 8 hours takes 8 spoons and so on. Typically, if you are in good health mentally and physically, you will have all of the energy (spoons) you need for a full day. Imagine if you lived with chronic pain and fatigue. Each task would require more spoons, (energy equivalents) and you would run out sooner.

While you can "borrow" spoons from the next day, keep in mind that those borrowed spoons will not replenish. You still have to do the next day's activities with fewer spoons. If you continue pushing your body and borrowing spoons, eventually, you will need to spend a day or two in bed because there are no spoons left to get up and get dressed.

This is how I manage every day. I am one of millions of people who live with chronic physical or emotional pain that use up spoons at a faster rate than normal. Perhaps you are too. We have to consider everything we do and plan accordingly so that there is enough energy to last throughout the day. The worse the pain, the less we will get accomplished. Consider discussing the spoon theory with anyone you know who is struggling with pain and illness. For more information go to www.butyoudontlooksick.com/the\_spoon\_theory. So, the next time we meet, and you are tempted to ask how my back is doing...let's talk about spoons instead!

Trusting in Christ,

Deacon Danice

Consider a Spiritual Renewal as a gift to yourself this Easter season. The Walk to Emmaus is a spiritual renewal program intended to strengthen the local church through the development of Christian disciples and leaders. The experience begins with a 72-hour short course in Christianity, comprised of fifteen talks by lay and clergy on the themes of God's grace, disciplines of Christian discipleship, and what it means to be the church. The course is wrapped in prayer and meditation, special times of worship and daily celebration of Holy Communion. The Emmaus Walk typically begins Thursday evening and concludes Sunday evening. Men and women attend separate weekends. The three-day Emmaus experience and follow-up groups strengthen and renew Christian people as disciples of Jesus Christ and as active members of the body of Christ in mission to the world. For more information or to register for a Walk to Emmaus event go to <http://www.nil-emmaus.org>, see the brochure rack, or contact Pastor Monty or Deacon Danice. You must be registered at least two weeks before the event.

The next Walk to Emmaus events are:
Men's Walk – May 3-6, 2018
Women's Walk – May 17-20, 2018

Calling All Graduates!

Are you graduating from high school, college, or a higher degree? If the answer is yes, WE WANT TO HONOR YOU! On Sunday, May 6, please join us if you are able during our 9am worship service so we can do just that. We want to congratulate you and wish you the very best with your future plans (and just maybe, bestow upon you a little gift!) If a grad can't make it, parents and extended family are invited to stand in honor of their grad!

FAMILY ACTIVITY:

May 13 is Mother's Day, and many people will be doing something for their moms on this special day, whether it's making and bringing them breakfast in bed, or taking them out to a nice restaurant, or buying/creating them a very special gift. All of these are wonderful ways to show love and appreciation to our mothers. But here's an idea to perhaps make the day extra special, and that could become a new tradition for mothers and children of all ages to celebrate every Mother's Day weekend.

MISSIONS WITH MOMS! What's that? Well, basically it means mothers and children finding creative ways to do mission and service for others, together! When moms and kids (be they young or grown) work side by side for a greater cause, it will not only lift your spirits and help you grow closer in faith, but also deepen your relationship together as you both answer Jesus' call for discipleship.

Now how do you do this? Well, there are lots of groups/organizations that always need help with volunteers. Google the following places:

FEED MY STARVING CHILDREN in Schaumburg

NORTHERN ILLINOIS FOOD BANK in Rockford

KEEP NORTHERN ILLINOIS BEAUTIFUL in both Rockford and Roscoe

ROCKFORD RESCUE MISSION (service opportunities at both their shelter, and their thrift store)

BELVIDERE-BOONE COUNTY FOOD PANTRY (just talk to Deacon Danice about coming and helping!)

And this is just a small sample! You can also speak to members of our church's Visitation Team (again, talk to Deacon Danice!) about brightening the days of our older church members who are homebound. Or maybe there's a neighbor who needs help with mowing their lawn and tending their garden? Or who is lonely and could use some company? Consider finding ways to reach out together, whether that's baking and delivering them some cookies or a casserole, or sitting and playing cards or board games together, there are LOTS of ways in which teams of moms and kids can reach out to show the love of Christ to others.

And this isn't limited to a single Sunday in May like Mother's Day! Consider sitting down together, moms and kids, and brainstorming a mission opportunity on Mother's Day, and making a plan to go and get involved as the weather continues to warm up. Many missions and services experience "decline" during the summer months, so now is the perfect time to get involved!

Yes, flowers and meals brought to you by loved ones are always nice, but what's even nicer is that time spent together, fulfilling our call by Jesus to be his hands and feet in the world, serving others in his name, so that all may know and experience the grace-filled love of God, on Mother's Day, and every day of the year!

Honoring Teachers and Students on May 20

Sunday, May 20, will be the last day of Sunday school for the 2017/2018 school year. On this special day, we'd like to show our appreciation for the Sunday school teachers during the 9am worship service. Teachers are asked to take time out from their busy schedules to join us during this service for this special moment. ALSO, we have a special gift for those leaving 2nd grade—something for them to "get acquainted" with over the summer, so if there's a 2nd grader in your life, please be sure to join us on May 20 in worship!

VBS Volunteer Meeting, Wednesday, May 2

Anyone interested in volunteering for Vacation Bible School this summer is invited for a special volunteer meeting on Wednesday, May 2, at 6:30pm in the Adult Classroom. This meeting will be a more in-depth meeting about our upcoming VBS, and will offer more detailed information, including decorating dates! If you are able, please come to this meeting! If you can't make it, please let Deacon Sharon know and information will be sent to you.

“What Do Mayflowers Bring?” by Deacon Sharon

Have you heard that old joke? “April showers bring May flowers; what do May flowers bring?” The answer of course is, “PILGRIMS!” (hahahaha!) I always love a good “play-on-words” joke, and I will chuckle (quite genuinely) at most “Dad jokes” (or as I refer to them, “a good groaner”).

But yes! We are in the merry month of May (finally) and one can *only hope* that for a while at least, we’ll be blessed with some pleasant weather (until it gets too hot and then we’ll be complaining about the heat and longing for autumn). But where March is an extension of winter, and April is toss-up on whatever Mother Nature decides for the day, you can usually rest assured that in May, you finally start to experience the season of spring, and are able to turn off the heat, open a window, and venture outside without a jacket (at least while the sun is out). And if you’re like me, you’ve been yearning to see flowers popping up, trees budding, and all those adorable ducklings and goslings following their feathered parents around. Spring at last! But again, going back to that joke about Mayflowers...I found myself thinking about the meaning of the word “pilgrim”.

Here in the United States, our image of a “pilgrim” is someone who wears a “belt-buckle hat” and helps with carving a turkey at Thanksgiving. But the definition of a pilgrim is not limited to November, Plymouth Rock, or the Thanksgiving holiday. A pilgrim is someone who goes on a journey, specifically a religious journey. We’ve heard that term: “pilgrimage”; a person going on a pilgrimage. In the Middle Ages, many Christians went on pilgrimages to various sacred places. As an English major, I am reminded of Chaucer’s Canterbury Tales and its colorful cast of “pilgrims” (hardly the sort who wear belt-buckle hats). In Europe, Rome was the place many pilgrims would journey to (and many to this day still do). Constantinople (now modern-day Istanbul) in Turkey was also a similar place, and there were many other sights and shrines throughout the European continent. But this was by no means limited to Europe!

Here in the “new world”, pilgrims travel great distances to visit holy places in Central and South America, places where sightings of Christ or the Virgin Mary have been seen, places where martyrs have laid down their lives, where statues and relics are said to heal those suffering from ailments. This is true in Africa, where Coptic Christians in Egypt travel to ancient cities to see holy sites and pray, and of course the Holy Land—modern day Israel and its surrounding neighbors, hold sacred places for Christians and its Abrahamic brethren. And yes, even here in the United States, there are people who make pilgrimages to manmade cathedrals, as well as to those created by nature in God’s vast creation. The reason Christians throughout all of history have been making these travels is that they are seeking; they are seeking ways to grow closer to God and deepen their own faith.

And sometimes a journey is needed for that, be it a long journey that takes you far away to a place you’ve never seen, or a simple journey, one that perhaps simply takes you to a forest or meadow where nothing but the sounds of God’s creation is around you. There is nothing wrong with desiring a “journey” in growing closer to God. In fact, as United Methodists, we often talk about our faith being a “lifelong journey”. This might explain the power of something like Emmaus, a time and chance for Christians to “pilgrimage” with others.

As the weather changes from cold to warm, as the snow melts and the grass thickens, as we finally open our windows and consider venturing out of our homes for the season, I encourage all of you to find ways in which you can make a “pilgrimage” of some kind this spring and summer season. Find ways to journey for your faith, journey to seek and grow closer with God, while at the same time remembering that whether you journey by yourself or with a friend, Christ is also there beside you. Seek and know him, and grow closer with him this summer.
