

Preparing For Baby

@Home

Painters

Preparing for Baby's Arrival

From Kurt Bruner, The Center for Strong Families

Congratulations on the exciting stage of life you've entered. Whether you've recently had a new baby or counting down to your due date, you've likely noticed that parenthood is an entirely different world. In the midst of all the joy and anticipation comes a whole new level of stretching (not just your belly) and character development. You may be wondering if life will ever be the same. In many ways it won't. So, become intentional about this season by preparing yourself to take three important steps for the transition to parenthood.

STEP ONE: Buckle up

As new parents, you've strapped yourself into a roller coaster of adventure—with highs you could have never imagined and lows that can push you to discover abilities and courage you didn't know you had. Along with God's blessing of children comes His calling for you to lay your life down for your child (Philippians 2:3-11). Things you once took for granted—like sleep, eating a warm meal or a spontaneous get-away with your spouse—are now things you will often sacrifice. While your friends without children sleep in on Saturday morning or hang out at the local Starbucks, you will be taking on what one sociologist called the “bone-wearying” work of a parent.

STEP TWO: Give Up

When you give sacrificially as parents you probably won't get the same kudos you'd get in the workplace, or even the same recognition you would have given each other for similar efforts before the kids arrived. You're moving into a time of life where such sacrificial giving is just something you have to do often and without expecting much fanfare. But it's in this aspect of your new mission — losing your life — that you find your life (Matthew 16:24-25). It's here that you develop “servant muscles” through the ongoing exercise of selfless giving. You'll also find that parenting is an arena for Christian discipleship with a “dailyness” and intensity like none other.

STEP THREE: Team Up

A couple entering into the journey of parenthood usually discover a sense of purpose and shared accomplishment that can push their relationship into greater joy. But they can simultaneously drive each other crazy. Adjusting to less sleep, sex, money and time for each other can be a blow to marital satisfaction. Worse still, couples that need each other the most often find themselves taking their frustration out on the only other adult in the house. Your marriage can survive this adjustment and you can experience the joy of parenting if you choose to be a team—if you lay your lives down for each other (Ephesians 5:22-33) and give each other an extra measure of love (1 Corinthians 13:4-8) and grace (2 Corinthians 9:8).

GOING FURTHER - Resources

Recommended Book:

Your Marriage Can Survive a Newborn (by psychologist Glenn Williams and occupational therapist Natalie Williams) helps couples thrive during the stress and strain of having a newborn. With chapters about anxiety, expectations, money, sex and fun, the Williams' speak from their own experience of having three children, as well as from the stories of other overextended parents, to show couples how to nurture their relationship even as they nurture their new baby.

Recommended Website:

The “Having a Baby” topic on TroubledWith.com provides encouragement and insights about making the transition from just the two of you to a “three-family.” It includes practical advice for the pregnant season as well as information about what life will be like once the baby arrives.

GOING FURTHER - Church Support

Through our on-line equipping resource, RightNow Training, you can access a number of video-driven "short courses" on a variety topics, including parenting and child-rearing. These can be powerful teaching segments, as well as great discussion starters between partners. Perhaps best of all, you can access them at your convenience, any time of day from anywhere you have Internet access, including a smart phone. There's no cost to you, and you'll have access to thousands of resources and study courses on all types of topics. E-mail keith@fbcterrell.org if you'd like to sign-up for access to RightNow Training.

Our Preschool/Nursery area is designed especially for infants and young children, ages birth to 3-years of age. Loving care, attention, and teaching are provided in each age-group class during Sunday School and worship hours, as well as during many special events. A child is busy learning, even before birth. We want to help this process continue in a physically, emotionally, and spiritually healthy manner, particularly in the early development stages and years. Preschool/Nursery is a first step for children entering our Children's Ministry. The Preschool/Nursery area is located off the hallway directly behind the choir loft. The bed-baby room offers a nursing area for new moms.