Jesus is the Light of the WORLD

John 8:12

Graduation season seems like a good time for us to think about the future. Let's take an opportunity to consider our perspective on the encouragement from Paul in Philippians 3:14, "I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus."

Have you ever had a teacher say something like "if you remember one thing from my class period remember this..."? It seems as if Paul is doing something similar for us in Philippians 3. Grab your Bible and read the verse that comes directly before the passage we already mentioned, verse 13. When Paul, the greatest missionary and church planter who ever lived, mentions the one thing he is the most committed to we should listen! This singularly significant action includes faithfully dealing with one of the most difficult areas of our lives, our past.

What exactly is Paul saying here? Should we try to bury our past in the nether regions of our subconscious? Are we to pretend like events in our past didn't occur? Understanding a bit of the Greek will be helpful. The word "forgetting" in the original language of the New Testament is ἐπιλανθάνομαι (ep-ee-lan-than'-om-ah-ee). This word can be understood as neglecting or no longer caring for. Notice also that the word is in the present tense. In context, dealing with the past is what allows us to strain forward to what lies ahead. I believe Paul, by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, is telling us to no longer care for the past in a way that it keeps us from moving forward. In addition to our natural predisposition to dwell on the past, the enemy knows that constant reminders of our past can keep us from God's preferred future. So, how can we develop a perspective of a powerless past? There is an Old Testament illustration that can help.

After the death of his son, Pharaoh finally relented and released the Israelites. As God's people journeyed toward the Promised Land they encountered two major obstacles. In front of them they witnessed the vast Red Sea blocking their path and behind them a great cloud of dust from the cavalcade of Egyptian soldiers charging toward them. Pharaoh wanted his slaves back and led the charge to run them down. God had made a way for His people to be free from Egyptian dominion. They were on their way to God's preferred future and in a sense, their past was rushing in to keep that from becoming a reality.

You know what happened next. God's people journeyed through the Red Sea after God miraculously made a way for them. "Forgetting" the past is possible when we realize that God has miraculously made a path forward. We should receive motivation to move past our past into the blessed future that only God could design.

Check out Exodus 14:30-31. For the sake of our illustration, what did God do with the representations of Israel's past? He destroyed them. If you are in Christ, God has forgiven your past sin. He can and will heal your past shame. When your past seeks to run you down and keep you from God's glorious future remember that He has dropped a wall of water on what hopes to hold you back. Exodus 14:31 paints a morbid but important picture. God allowed the Israelites to see the dead bodies of the Egyptian soldiers. We should look back and learn from the difficulties in our past but also see that God has rendered them powerless.

Whether you are naturally stepping into a new season like those who are graduating or not, press on! Don't let your past keep you from the "prize of the upward call of God."

Teenagers, Jesus, and the Occasional Eye Roll

If you've ever tried talking to a teenager, you know it can be... an adventure. One minute you're getting one-word answers, the next you're in a deep conversation about life, faith, and why pineapple does (or definitely does not) belong on pizza. It does by the way.

Here's the truth: teenagers are searching. Beneath the sarcasm, busy schedules, and screen time, they're asking big questions—Who am I? Do I matter? Is there more to life than this? And that's where we come in.

Teenager evangelism isn't about having all the right words—it's about showing up. It's about building real relationships, listening more than we talk, and proving that we care (even if they pretend not to notice). Over time, that trust opens the door to share the greatest truth of all: Jesus loves them, knows them, and has a purpose for their lives.

And yes, sometimes sharing that truth happens in between ridiculous games, snack runs, and reminding them that no... energy drinks are not a spiritual gift. They especially occur on Sunday mornings for small groups!

But here's the exciting part: when teenagers encounter Jesus, it's real. It's powerful and it spreads—because teens listen to other teens sometimes more than they listen to us (let's be honest).

So, let's keep showing up, keep loving them, and keep pointing them to Christ—even if we have to compete with TikTok and group chats along the way.

Because every eye roll is still an opportunity.

Jeremy
