NOTICE TO CLIENTS: LIMITS OF CONFIDENTIALITY AND INFORMED CONSENT

The term "confidentiality" refers to your therapist's professional obligation to avoid unauthorized disclosure of information obtained during the course of your therapy. Thus, your therapist will reveal nothing about your counseling except under conditions agreed upon by you.

In order that there be no confusion in this regard, however, the Link Care Counseling Staff want you to be fully aware of certain limits to the general rule of confidential information:

1. While many of our counselors are Licensed Psychologists, Licensed Marriage and Family Therapists (LMFT), Licensed Clinical Social Workers and Licensed Ministers, your therapist may be a Psychological Assistant, Associate Marriage and Family Therapist (AMFT), or Counselor Trainee. Should this be the case, your therapist is required to receive supervision from a California-licensed Psychologist or Counselor on staff. Your case may be reviewed as a part of this supervision. This is to ensure that you receive the highest quality of professional assistance. Link Care also takes a team approach to many of its cases. In addition, our philosophy of treatment is that of not working in isolation. Therefore, Link Care clinical staff will often review cases as a counseling staff. The intent of these case reviews is to ensure quality, professional services; and your confidentiality is maintained by the clinical staff as a whole. Other staff members also have access to clinical information to the degree necessary to perform their job responsibilities.

In California, clergy are mandatory reporters of child abuse, and may be required to report certain other crimes. Link Care pastoral counselors are not authorized to receive penitential communications, and they do not have a duty under the discipline or tenets of this religious organization to keep communications about child abuse, elder abuse, or self-harm confidential. Because of this, any information disclosed to a pastoral counselor regarding child abuse, elder abuse, self-harm or harm to another will be reported to the appropriate authority. The pastoral staff at Link Care works as a team with the clinical staff and may seek consultations regarding your counseling, so some aspects of your case may be discussed confidentially with the team. The counseling privilege would still apply, but as discussed, the clergy-penitent privilege does not apply.

2. There are some exceptions to the promise of confidence that your therapist is obligated to observe in accordance with California State Law: A) Confidence must be broken where there is a reasonable suspicion that you may be a danger to yourself, to someone else or their property; B) Confidence must be broken if you make a threat of violence that is communicated directly by you, or reported by a significant other; C) Confidence must be broken where there is a reasonable suspicion of abuse being inflicted upon a minor (under 18), a dependent adult, or an older adult (65 or older).

3. If you are involved or become involved in legal action, your legal right to prevent confidential information from being disclosed in court or other legal proceedings may not apply. This could occur, for example, if your emotional condition has been raised as an issue by you or your attorney. Disclosure of information may also be required by a superior court subpoena. Should a legal action take place Link Care will charge for therapist/staff time related to the legal action.

4. If part or all of your fees are being paid for through insurance coverage, then your therapist will need to supply the company with the dates of your sessions and a diagnostic number. Additional clinical information is frequently requested in order to authorize payment or additional treatment. This information may include relevant historical background, a description of current symptoms, and a current treatment plan. Additionally, your insurance company may require that they be permitted to review records for case management and quality assurance purposes. You are encouraged to discuss this issue with your therapist if you have questions about the possible disclosure of additional information.

5. In the event of chronic failure to make payments for therapy, Link Care Counseling Center may utilize the services of a collection agency. While use of such an agency would involve disclosure of your identity, no additional clinical information would be released either to the agency or to small claims court.

If you should have further questions regarding any portion of this notice, please discuss it with your therapist at your earliest convenience. We look forward to working with you!

I have read and understood the above statement:

Urgent calls placed to your counselor may be billed at your standard hourly rate.

Missed Appointments

Appointments must be cancelled 24 hours prior to their scheduled time. Failure to provide 24 hours notice of cancellation will result in a $25.00 cancellation fee. This fee will not be covered by your insurance company and will need to be paid prior to attending your next session.

LIFE HISTORY QUESTIONNAIRE

The purpose of this questionnaire is to obtain a comprehensive picture of your background. By completing these questions as fully and as accurately as you can, you will facilitate your own therapeutic program at Link Care. You are requested to answer these routine questions in your own time instead of using up your actual consulting time. Please try to answer all of the questions. However, if a question does not apply to you or if you do not wish to reply at this time, please indicate so and then continue on. If you need more space to answer, please use the back of the page or use a blank piece of paper and attach it to this questionnaire.

If a spouse or other family member is also to be in therapy with you, please complete separate questionnaires and do not consult about your answers. Remember, we want to know how you think and feel, and not how you believe someone else would want you to respond.

It is understandable that you might be concerned about what happens to the information you give, because much or all of this information is highly personal. Consequently, your care records are kept strictly within professional confidence.
