DAVIS CENTER NEWS: You have received information about the annual Fall Art Auction, a parent driven event to benefit the Davis Center. It will take place in Fellowship Hall on Friday, October 26, at 6 p.m., featuring arts and crafts produced by the amazingly talented children enrolled in the Davis Center. We invite our FCPC family to attend and join in the fall fun. Last year we had several pieces of original works from talented artists and craftsmen in the church and community at large. We hope those same contributors will present their work once again for auction and encourage their fellow artists to participate as well. You may drop off your works in the Genesis Sunday School classroom by Oct 19th. Please include your name and a brief description of the item. While it may be somewhat intimidating to have your work displayed alongside the works of the Davis children, it does enhance the variety we are able to present.

Once again, we also need some volunteers from the church to serve as judges for the “themed” tables created by the teachers in each of the center’s classrooms. This year the theme is literacy – each table will depict a different children’s book. To volunteer you may write your name on the bottom of the donations list, posted on the bulletin board near the church office, indicating your interest in being a “table judge”. We need about 6 or 7 judges.

So, mark your calendars for Oct. 26th and plan to be “wowed” by the artists in our midst!
