

Worship Update for Christ The King Lutheran Church, Fallbrook as of February 14, 2021

This is the most recent update about our worship locations and policies. We are now holding our worship services inside for all worship services adhering to the Supreme Court ruling for up to 25% capacity in our worship spaces.

We are asking that masks be worn as much as possible during our time together indoors, especially when in close proximity of others who are not in their direct family home. We also are asking for social spacing of at least 6 feet as we worship together.

As always, anyone who does not feel well for any reason is asked to not come in person, or if you have been exposed to anyone who is COVID positive in the last 10 days. We will have disposable masks, hand sanitizers and take other measures to make sure our worship spaces are as safe as possible, but as always, there is risk anytime you come in proximity to others, so by choosing to come in person means that you assume that risk for yourself and your family.

We will continue to live stream all of our worship services and you can watch those services on Facebook, YouTube (you can find our church page by putting in "Christ The King Fallbrook" into the respective search engines) or go to <https://ctkfb.online.church/>

Thank you for your understanding.
