Scientists have produced a mountain of evidence showing that concepts presented as pictures instead of words are more likely to be recalled. Put simply visuals matter, a lot. If you hear information, you are likely to remember about 10 percent of that information three days later. Add a picture however, your recall rate will soar to 65 percent. To put that in context, a picture will help you remember six times more than listening to the words alone.

Matthew 13:31-35

In this instance, we see the kingdom of God compared to a mustard seed, which at the time when Jesus was speaking here was the smallest known seed. What makes this tiny seed so significant is that it grows into one of the largest trees we can find in a garden.
