Christmas in July? Well, it might sound like it if you walk by my office in the next few weeks. In worship ministry, we have to think ahead if we are to be well prepared and ready to lead a good sized group of people to a common goal. So for me, it's listening season for Christmas music in July!

To be clear, I'm not one of those folks who listen to Christmas music all year long. (I'm looking at you Lori Karr!) But I do enjoy taking a deep dive into familiar tunes with fresh and diverse versions and arrangements: looking for what we can do well that will connect with our people; finding new songs that help us celebrate and worship well during those Advent weeks; bringing fresh new fun and life to the first part of our Behold The Lamb Of God Christmas concert, all while very much looking forward to what I call the 'coming home' portion, singing and hearing songs that have become so familiar and welcome to many of you.

So yeah, Christmas in July. For me anyway, and it makes me glad.

Eyes up,
david
